INTRODUCTION

1.1 The then Secretary of State for Northern Ireland, Rt Hon Peter Brooke, MP, appointed me as Local Government Boundaries Commissioner on 31 December 1990 to review the number, boundaries and names of the Local Government districts and the number, boundaries and names of the wards into which each district is divided. The provisions concerning the appointment and function of the Commissioner, the procedure he must follow in performing that function, and the rules in accordance with which the recommendations of the Commissioner are to be made are contained in Section 50 (1) and Parts I, II and III of Schedule 4 of the Local Government Act (NI) 1972, as amended.

1.2 The Review of Local Government Boundaries is necessary to ensure that local government boundaries reflect fairly the size and distribution of the electorate taking into account the changes in population distribution and density which have taken place since the boundaries were last reviewed in 1982.

1.3 The Commissioner's task is to review the number, boundaries and names of the local government districts and the number, boundaries and names of the wards into which each district is divided.

1.4 The Office of the Commissioner is entirely independent. The Commissioner is not under the direction of a Minister or of a Government Department. His task is to review the available data and to consider any representations made to him and to report to the Department of the Environment for Northern Ireland. I also regard myself as having a responsibility to ensure that the individual elector has a fair opportunity to elect the local government representative of their choice through establishing as near as may be equality in ward electorates within local government districts.

1.5 The Review is NOT concerned with the organisation, functions or management of Local Government and my present remit does NOT include the grouping of the wards into District Electoral Areas for the purpose of proportional representation.

1.6 The Review fell into four major identifiable Stages, the first being the announcement on Monday 18 February 1991 that I had commenced my task and was inviting proposals from local government districts, political parties, associations, organisations, community groups and individual members of the public.

1.7 Following consideration of the representations received the second Stage involved the publication of Provisional Recommendations on 2 September 1991 inviting further representation or objections.

1.8 Consideration of the further comments received including oral representation at local public hearings led to the third Stage, namely, publication of Revised Recommendations on 20 February 1992 inviting final representations on any revisions.

1.9 The Final Stage is the submission of a Report to Government outlining my Final Recommendations. This is the Stage represented by the publication of this document.

1.10 The procedure now requires the Secretary of State to make an Order which gives effect, with or without modifications, to my Final Recommendations.

1.11 Until the Final Stage, all the recommendations were provisional and subject to change in the light of public representations and comments. I was anxious that local people should use every opportunity to present their views to me, particularly in those cases where the options were fairly evenly balanced, or where they felt that it was necessary to do so.

1.12 Under the Order, the Commissioner may ask the Department of the Environment for Northern Ireland to appoint a number of Assistant Commissioners. At my request, the Department appointed Professor R H Buchanan, Mrs A Gibson, Professor N J Gibson and Mr C Ward to help assess the content and weight of the representations and assist me at hearings.

1.13 I have also had the advice and support as Assessors of Mr D Bell, Commissioner of Valuation & Lands, Mr M Brand, Director of Ordnance Survey for Northern Ireland, Mr R McMurray, Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages for Northern Ireland and of Mr P Bradley, the Chief Electoral Officer for Northern Ireland. This group has been particularly helpful in bringing to my attention the data available in public records and in analysing the various statistics.

1.14 My office has been staffed by a small group of Civil Servants seconded from the Department of the Environment for Northern Ireland to provide the necessary administrative and professional support. The Ordnance Survey for Northern Ireland has eased my task considerably by providing expert advice on mapping and publishing and by preparing the map series quickly and efficiently.

1.15 I also appointed as a specialist advisor Miss Jean Forbes, Centre for Planning, University of Strathclyde who was a member of Professor Matthews' team for the 1962 Belfast Regional Survey and Plan and for 10 years a member of the Scottish Local Boundary Commission.

1.16 For legal advice I retained the firm of Elliott Duffy Garrett.

BACKGROUND

2.1 The present system of 26 local government districts and the wards within those districts was established under the provisions of the Local Government (Boundaries) Order (NI) 1972 and confirmed by the Local Government (Boundaries) Order (NI) 1984 which made no change to the number of districts established originally in 1972 but increased the number of wards from 526 to 566.

2.2 The last Review was undertaken during the period 1982-84 and although the next Review was not due to begin until 1992 the Secretary of State decided to bring this date forward because there had been significant population movement in Northern Ireland since 1982, and because changes in the local government franchise under the Elected Authorities (NI) Act 1989 had increased the number of eligible electors in some areas.

2.3 Since 1982 the number of people entitled to vote in local government elections increased by 7% overall with variations between local government districts ranging from an increase of about 20% in Lisburn, Limavady and Ards local government districts to a fall of 7% in Belfast. Significant variations also existed in the average number of electors per councillor, from 696 in Moyle local government district to 4,132 in Belfast.

2.4 The Review was intended to address all these factors so that the local government boundaries reflect fairly the size and distribution of the electorate in keeping with the principles outlined in this Report.

2.5 In determining boundaries, the Order requires the Commissioner to have regard to topographical features which are readily identifiable. Townlands must not normally be split between districts or wards. Districts should be integral and should not enclose other districts. In determining ward boundaries, the Commissioner MUST have regard to size, population and physical diversity of the district and desirability for proper representation of the rural and urban electorate within the district. Each district (with the exception of Belfast where the number of wards must be between 40 and 60) should comprise a minimum of 15 wards but in certain circumstances may comprise up to 30 wards. Each ward within a district should have substantially the same number of electors, based on the February 1991 Register of Electors, so far as this is reasonably practicable.

2.6 Because of the demographic changes which have occurred since 1982 a complete and exhaustive review of the composition of each ward and district has been undertaken. This was necessary to achieve broad equivalence between ward electorates within a district.

2.7 It is not always possible to achieve absolute equivalence between wards because of a number of factors including the distribution of the electorate and scale of electoral growth, size, population, physical diversity and sense of local community. I have therefore followed the practice of the previous Review in allowing a tolerance of 10% on either side of the mean ward electorate for districts, although my aim has been to keep the variation as small as possible.

2.8 During the last Review of Local Government Boundaries the then Commissioner, Sir Frank Harrison, decided to present his Recommendations by maps, showing ward and district names and boundaries, supported by an ancillary text listing the townland and street names included in each ward and district. This marked a change from the practice in 1972 when the text was definitive and the maps ancillary. I have decided to continue with the precedent set in 1982 and publish the maps as the definitive document.

CRITERIA

3.1 The Review is established under the 1972 Local Government Act (NI) and I have been advised that its range is therefore limited by the ambit of the Act. This Act reflected the Recommendations of the 1970 Macrory Report on Local Government in Northern Ireland which is therefore a key contextual document.

3.2 In relation to District Councils, Macrory (Paragraph 113) recommended three main criteria. Councils should:

- be small cohesive units to provide close local contacts, yet large enough and have sufficient functions to employ adequate senior staff;
- provide an opportunity to participate in the discussion and settlement of local policy to all who wish to do so; and
- be based on main centres of population (26 district towns) and provide a close link between town and country

3.3 Macrory also emphasised the essentially local nature of District Councils although he did foresee the possibility of amalgamation by agreement between neighbouring councils. It was thought that few local government districts would have a population under 30,000

3.4 Further criteria and guidance for determining local government boundaries based on Schedule 4 of the 1972 Act and my own working experience can be summarised as follows: distribution of the electorate and scale of the electoral growth; size of district, population, settlement pattern, topographical features and special geographic situations (eg lakes, rivers, mountains, road/rail systems, etc); sense of local community; communication and transport links, townland integrity, range of 15-30 wards within a district except Belfast (40-60), as far as possible boundaries should be clearly defined, easily identifiable on a map and respect existing patterns of settlement and sense of local community. Unless unavoidable, they should not split local communities and should not be eccentric or severed.

PRINCIPLES

4.1 As the Review has been based on the 1972 Act with similar terms of reference and under the same criteria as the 1982 Review which solidified the local government districts established in 1972, I consider that the overall scale of representation in 1992 should remain broadly the same as in the preceding 20 year period

4.2 In rural areas the focus for districts should be the larger market towns and their hinterlands, none of which have changed greatly since 1982. The presumption therefore is against radical change in the number of local government districts unless strong arguments are advanced to the contrary.

4.3 Wards too should be coherent and preferably should have as a focus the natural centre indicated by the settlement pattern of the area.

4.4 Any change in electoral boundaries may well have the effect of changing the pattern of political representation in subsequent elections but this is not a matter of which the Commissioner may take cognizance.

4.5 The dominant principles which are applied in the review are: centrality (the integrity of a town and its hinterland); sense of local community; stability/continuity (no change unless justified); representation (accessibility to elected representatives); and equity in ward electorate (within a  $\pm 10\%$  range at ward level within any district).

4.6 The most important principle for creating a new ward is the distribution of the electoral growth throughout the district. This growth proved to be more evenly distributed between the urban and rural areas than in the 1982 Review when growth was largely concentrated in the urban areas. This urbanisation of the electorate during the 1970's underpinned the creation of the additional 40 wards at that time.

4.7 The mixed pattern of growth on this occasion, distributed between the urban and rural communities, limited the opportunity to establish new wards proportionate to growth in the electorate in some districts. It also explains the relatively low overall number of new wards recommended.

INITIAL STAGE

CONSULTATION

5.1 Consultation with all those involved in Local Government and with the public at large was an extremely important part of the Review. Success depended very largely on the assistance given by local councils and individuals, whether as members of a political or other association, community group or on their own behalf.

5.2 On Monday 18 February 1991 I held a Press Conference to announce that I had commenced my task and explain my view of the scope of the exercise, my general approach to the task and the proposed time table. (Appendix III)

5.3 A Public Notice was placed in the three principal Belfast newspapers and fifty local district and provincial papers explaining that this was the first of a series of consultations about the Review of Local Government Boundaries and inviting representations on the Review.

5.4 In addition over 250 letters were sent to individual local government districts; to all the main political parties; to Government departments; and to associations, organisations and community groups inviting written representations.

5.5 I was most anxious to be made aware of the preferred options of all interested parties particularly at that first crucial stage so that account could be taken of them in forming the Provisional Recommendations.

5.6 Political parties and local councils were provided with a summary of the 1991 Register of Electors showing the change in electorate at district and ward level since the last Review, in order to assist them in the submission of proposals either of a general nature or in relation to a specific local government district or ward.

REPRESENTATIONS

5.7 In response to the Public Notice and associated individual consultative process about 100 written submissions were received (Appendix II). In addition several delegations asked me to explain the background to the Review, the timetable and the criteria I would use, and to indicate the form of submission which would be helpful.

5.8 The representations received provided important evidence all of which played a crucial part in shaping the Provisional Recommendations. These came mainly from local government districts, individual councillors, political parties plus associations and groups linked with local government. Surprisingly the response from locally based community groups was minimal and there were very few comments from individual members of the public.

5.9 I am grateful to all those who submitted proposals and submissions which were of great assistance in determining the Provisional Recommendations. I received one submission marked 'confidential' which I declined to accept on the grounds that the Review must be open and public and that I must be free to publish or refer to any submission made to me.

5.10 The Provisional Recommendations were published on 2 September 1991 in the form of 55 definitive maps and associated ancillary material.

PROVISIONAL STAGE

PROVISIONAL RECOMMENDATIONS

6.1 At the Provisional Stage I proposed to reduce the number of local government districts by one to give 25 local government districts. The principal change was the suggested merger in North Antrim between Moyle and Ballymoney local government districts which, if accepted, would have resulted in a new local government district named Dalriada. The only further major district boundary change under the Provisional Recommendations affected Rathfriland which I recommended should be transferred from Newry and Mourne to Banbridge district.

6.2 I also recommended a substantial number of changes to ward boundaries and a net increase of 3 in the number of wards, bringing the total to 569.

6.3 The Provisional Recommendations and associated definitive maps were displayed at over 100 locations during the period 3 September - 2 October 1991 and in seven of those all the Northern Ireland boundary recommendations could be seen.

6.4 Further comments were invited, including oral representation at local public hearings, in order to help shape any revisions to the Provisional Recommendations.

REPRESENTATIONS

6.5 About 100 written representations were received (Appendix II) in respect of the Provisional Recommendations mainly from local councils, individual councillors, political parties plus associations and groups linked with local government. I was grateful to all those who submitted proposals and submissions all of which have been taken into account in determining the revisions to my Provisional Recommendations.

6.6 In addition 15 Public Hearings were held during the period 5 November - 17 December 1991 which gave the opportunity for further oral representations to be presented on my Provisional Recommendations either to me personally or to my Assistant Commissioners. The hearings were held mainly in town halls or civic centres and I very much appreciated the co-operation from elected public representatives and other witnesses which ensured that proceedings were conducted as informally as possible and in a very friendly spirit.

6.7 The information presented to me was invariably based on extensive local knowledge and was invaluable in assisting my review of the Provisional Recommendations. I hope that the extent to which my Provisional Recommendations were altered as a result will assure the public that the consultative process was meaningful and that it was worth their while making their views known.

6.8 The Revised Recommendations were published on 20 February 1992 in the form of 31 definitive maps plus associated ancillary material.

REVISED STAGE

REVISED RECOMMENDATIONS

7.1 At the Revised Stage I proposed to retain the existing 26 local government district structure. The principal revision to my Provisional Recommendations was the decision to retain both Ballymoney and Moyle as separate local government districts.

7.2 The revised number of wards increased to 582, an increase of 13 compared with the 569 wards provisionally recommended, and a net increase of 16 compared with the existing 566 wards established in 1984. I also recommended a substantial number of changes to ward boundaries.

7.3 I was glad to have been able to take account of local representations in most cases except where these were conflicting or not possible within the guidelines.

7.4 The Revised Recommendations in the form of the definitive district maps were displayed at 66 district locations and there were seven locations for viewing the overall Northern Ireland Revised Recommendations.

7.5 On inviting comments about the Revised Recommendations I emphasised how important it was for all interested parties and individuals to use this final opportunity to present their views to me and I looked forward to continuing the consultative process.

REPRESENTATIONS

7.6 The response received in respect of the Revised Recommendations was minimal. No substantive comments were received in respect of the 9 districts which remained unchanged at this stage and revisions in relation to a further 13 districts were generally accepted.

7.7 Objections were, however, received in relation to the remaining four districts and I therefore decided to hold further Public Hearings in each district in relation to:-

Ballymoney local government district

Belfast local government district

Newry & Mourne local government district

Strabane local government district

7.8 The hearings were held during the period 13 April - 28 April 1992.

CONSIDERATION

8.1 Many of the submissions, particularly those from the political parties, covered more than one local government district. Indeed most of the main political parties submitted very helpful detailed submissions covering all 26 districts.

8.2 Some proposals went beyond what was relevant to the Review by introducing factors outside my remit, particularly suggestions about the grouping of wards into District Electoral Areas and consequential changes to the boundaries of the District Electoral Areas.

8.3 Each local government district has been carefully examined on the basis of the distribution of the electorate included in the 1991 electoral register in the context of the comments received.

8.4 A detailed Consideration, taking into account all the relevant factors including the legislative criteria plus the general principles on which the Review is based, is included with the separate Final Recommendations for each individual local government district which are attached to this Report.

MAIN ISSUES

9.1 Although some representations were received suggesting boundary changes at district level including merging certain local government districts and abolishing others, in the main, there was no overwhelming desire for radical change although this may be a result of my published views about the scope of the Review. The majority of submissions favoured minimal change to a structure of local government representation which has remained relatively unchanged for 20 years.

9.2 The extent of agreement between certain groups, particularly political parties whose views would normally differ greatly, plus the obvious time and effort spent in preparing the submissions was impressive and proved of great assistance to my work. Generally comments centred on ward boundary alterations aimed at maintaining representations at the level recommended during the 1982 Review.

9.3 However some representations were received in respect of certain local government districts identifying an underlying desire for major boundary changes, particularly in relation to Belfast, Castlereagh, Derry, Lisburn, Newry and Mourne, Ballymoney and Moyle local government districts.

9.4 The major issues throughout the Review centred on these district boundary changes particularly Ballymoney, Moyle plus Newry and Mourne although there was also intense debate about ward boundary changes in certain districts, for example, Antrim, Ards, Magherafelt and Strabane.

FINAL STAGE

10.1 My final examination and recommendations for each local government district are attached in the individual Sections which follow.

10.2 At this Final Stage I recommend the retention of the existing 26 local government district structure although a small number of district boundary changes are recommended in relation to Banbridge, Craigavon, Lisburn plus Newry and Mourne districts.

10.3 The final recommended number of wards is 582, an increase of 16 compared with the existing 566 wards established in 1984. An additional ward has been created in five districts; four districts have two additional wards; and in one district three additional wards have been established.

10.4 A substantial number of ward boundary changes are also recommended, including certain minor final changes resulting from consultation on my Revised Recommendations, as follows:-

- |                |   |   |
|----------------|---|---|
| STRABANE       | — | the Finn ward boundary has been adjusted in respect of the Castlemurray/Castletown area which is now recommended to be included in the West ward in Strabane town.  |
| NEWRY & MOURNE | — | the Clonallan and Kilkeel Central ward boundaries have been adjusted to include further urban areas with consequential adjustments to the Kilkeel South, Binnian and Lisnacreel wards recommended. I also recommend a further change in relation to Meigh which now transfers to the Forkhill ward. |

10.5 There are no further changes to my Revised Recommendations which were published on 20 February 1992.

10.6 The Final Recommendations in the form of the definitive district maps (Appendix V) are displayed for a limited period at 73 district locations and there are seven locations for viewing the overall Northern Ireland Final Recommendations. (Appendix VI)

10.7 The procedure now requires the Secretary of State to make an Order which gives effect, with or without modifications, to my Final Recommendations.

CONCLUSION

11.1 I am grateful to all those who submitted written submissions and presented oral evidence at the various public hearings during the different stages of the Review. The information presented to me was invariably based on extensive local knowledge and was invaluable in assisting my consideration of the various issues raised. The courtesy and good temper with which often very strongly held views were advocated was extremely helpful and this made the handling of the public hearings very pleasant.

11.2 The consultation process was lengthy and I am particularly grateful to all those local councils, political parties, public representatives, churches, statutory bodies, groups, associations and members of the public who participated in the Review. I am also grateful to the press and the media for the interest and general cover given to the Review.

11.3 I am most grateful for the advice and support of the Assessors (para 1.13) all of whom co-operated willingly in the preparation of the statistical information needed for the Review. The assistance provided by the Director of Ordnance Survey and his staff, who have worked under pressure to prepare the map series, has been particularly helpful.

11.4 The Assistant Commissioners (para 1.12) all of whom were involved in the various public hearings helped me greatly in coming to my final conclusions. Their co-operation and advice was most helpful and I am greatly indebted to them for their assistance. I am also grateful for the advice provided by Miss Jean Forbes, my specialist adviser, during the course of the Review.

11.5 Finally I wish to gratefully acknowledge the part played by my staff all of whom were wholeheartedly dedicated to ensuring that the Review progressed efficiently and effectively. Mr C H Baird acted as Secretary to the Commissioner, and Mr T H W Gordon as Chief Professional and Technical Officer. I am grateful to both for their unfailing help and courtesy, for their managerial and technical skills, and for consistently good advice and support. Every staff member has willingly made a contribution beyond what would normally be regarded as their ordinary duties.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES COMMISSIONER REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

DERRY LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate increased by 6,873 from 55,453 to 62,326. This represented an overall increase of 12% but there were very large variations at ward level ranging from a 200% increase in Crevagh and Springtown to a 22% decrease in St Peter's. The average ward electorate was 2,078 based on a maximum 30 ward structure.

Initial Representations

Eight submissions were received putting forward proposals for Derry City Council. The local Democratic Unionist Party and Official Unionist Association recommended a new separate Council for the Waterside area. All other representations suggested that the current boundary remain unchanged and that only internal ward boundary adjustments were necessary except for one further submission which suggested that the rural eastern wards should transfer to Limavady.

The representations for a separate council on the East Bank attempted to highlight the distinct local community identity on the Waterside; suggested an imbalance between urban and rural services; implied that the present arrangements favour the city side; indicated an apparent public/private sector inclination to invest and develop on both the East and West Banks; and pointed to the continuing population growth as a justification for establishing a separate council on the East Bank of the Foyle.

The case made for retaining the existing boundary emphasised the District's natural geographic catchment in social, economic, political and administrative terms; highlighted the successful economic support achieved because of the City's regional base (new bridge, harbour, airport, industry and city centre regeneration); suggested that the creation of two relatively small councils would undermine the sense of a strong regional base and could have a damaging effect on future regional development; commented on the loss of integrity and historic identity; and highlighted the further isolation which would be imposed on the remaining Protestant community on the city side.

Provisional Recommendations

The transfer of rural wards to Limavady was discounted since the lie of the land makes these wards part of the natural hinterland of the City. There are, therefore, two options: either to retain the existing boundary with a re-drawing of the 30 ward boundaries or to divide the district into two local government districts.

I was not convinced by the argument that the Waterside community is a homogeneous unit apart from the City. This is supported by the fact that 6 Waterside councillors out of 13 Waterside representatives voted with the Council majority for no change. I could find no evidence that Government allocated its public expenditure on the basis of two separate local communities, for example, the Department of Environment's Londonderry Area Plan 1981-1996 outlines a strategy for the development of the City as a whole. Public expenditure is allocated on both sides of the Foyle. Indeed recent developments on the East Bank indicated a proportionally greater investment than on the city side, for example, Fruit of the Loom, and other developments including the Dorman's Wharf mixed office and commercial development. Although there are branch offices for private sector and municipal facilities on the East Bank, there does not appear to be a readily identifiable urban centre.

The majority of opinion within the District represented by the City Council and the main political parties, with only one exception, supported the retention of a City represented by a single local government district. I was convinced by the argument that the City benefits overall from its regional status as a counterpole in the northwest to Belfast, and that it would not be in the best interests of the District or the electorate in the Waterside to create a separate East Bank Council.

The 12% overall increase in the electorate together with the concentration of this growth in the urban areas would normally justify an additional ward but, as the City already has the maximum of 30 wards, I decided to retain the existing split of 13 and 17 wards on the East and West Banks respectively.

On the East Bank several wards experienced significant decreases, and increased development resulted in large urban sectors spreading into rural wards, for example, Faughan and Corrody. The ward structure has been reshaped extending the urban wards in order to incorporate this new development, creating a new Kilfennan ward, the demise of Faughan and the reshaping of Corrody which has been renamed Holly Mount.

On the West Bank I restructured the wards to resolve two major electoral variations. Firstly there was a marked decline in many of the inner urban wards particularly St Peter's which is now incorporated with the adjacent Creggan South, and other inner City wards. Secondly the imbalance in Crevagh and Springtown arising from the 200% increase since 1982 was resolved by a three-way split creating essentially three new wards namely Crevagh, Springtown and Foyle Springs which includes part of the former Glen ward.

Response

Five representations were received at this second stage of the Review which all concentrated on the major issue of a separate East Bank council although there was also some representation about individual ward boundaries.

Public Hearing

I decided to hold a Public Hearing to provide an opportunity for further oral representation. The Hearing was well attended with comments again largely concentrating on the single issue of a separate East Bank council. The Hearing was most constructive although the evidence presented centred on assertion and counter assertion about the need for a separate East Bank council.

Revised Recommendations

Following careful consideration of all the written and oral evidence presented I again came to the conclusion that it would not be in the best interest of the overall electorate in the City Council area to create a separate East Bank local government district.

I proposed no revisions to the Provisional Recommendations and it was not therefore necessary to publish revised maps at this stage. No substantive further comments were received and the Provisional Recommendations are carried through to the Final Stage. The 30 ward structure retains an average ward electorate of 2,078.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Derry local government district remain unchanged and that the District continues to comprise 30 wards as shown on the associated maps. The composition of the 30 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES COMMISSIONER REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

LIMAVADY LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Limavady increased by 2,887 from 16,096 to 18,983 representing an 18% increase. The average ward electorate was 1,266 based on the existing minimum 15 ward structure. There was a wide variation in the growth throughout the District with significant urban increases particularly Enagh which experienced a 100% increase.

Initial Representations

Few representations were received in relation to Limavady local government district and only one submission suggested any major change to either ward or district boundaries. All other comments envisaged no change.

Provisional Recommendations

A suggestion to transfer the five rural Derry City Council wards to Limavady had no widespread support and was in any event unacceptable geographically as the lie of the land makes these wards part of the natural hinterland of Londonderry City. A minor adjustment with the Coleraine local government district boundary at Formil, in the Garvagh area, was also suggested but on examination I decided to make no change in order to avoid an irregular boundary.

The overall increase in the electorate of 18% pointed towards an additional ward but the distribution of this growth suggested that the 15 ward structure could be retained. I favoured this because of the existing average ward electorate.

Response

Only one representation was received at the second stage of the Review which proposed detailed ward boundary changes.

Public Hearing

I decided to hold a public hearing to allow the opportunity for further comment on the Provisional Recommendations. Evidence was presented primarily on detailed changes in relation to the Highlands, Ballykelly, Glack and Aghanloo ward boundaries which I was largely able to accept.

Revised Recommendation

I found both the written and oral evidence most helpful and I was glad to be able to take account of much of the local representations. The 15 ward structure retains an average ward electorate of 1,266.

Response

No further comments were received at this stage about the Revised Recommendations which are carried through to the Final Stage.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Limavady local government district remain unchanged and that the District continues to comprise 15 wards as shown on the associated map. The composition of the 15 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES COMMISSIONER REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

COLERAINE LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Coleraine increased by 3,904 from 32,852 to 36,756. While this represented an overall increase of 12%, individual ward variations ranged from a 72% increase in Mount Sandel to a 19% reduction in Churchland. The average ward electorate was 1,750 based on 21 wards.

Initial Representations

A total of four submissions were received relating to Coleraine local government district. The Council suggested that the amalgamation of some districts should be considered in the interests of greater efficiency, economy and effectiveness. There was also a general acceptance that it would be necessary to change existing ward boundaries and the creation of a maximum two additional wards was suggested. Two submissions referred to possible district boundary changes in the Dunluce/Bushmills area.

Provisional Recommendations

The Coleraine District boundary largely follows clearly defined topographical features and, as there was no great demand for change, I decided that the district boundary should remain unaltered.

The overall increase in electorate pointed to the creation of at least one additional ward. However, establishing new wards in this district proved to be difficult as the growth in the electorate was distributed quite widely. In Coleraine town, however, to the east of the River Bann the electorate in Mount Sandel and Strand wards increased considerably. Here I was able to create a new ward called Knocklynn and subsequent redrawing of boundaries led to the renaming of Knockantern as Dundooan.

Response

No comments were received in relation to the provisionally proposed ward boundaries. However the Council suggested an extension of its district boundary to include the Bushmills ward and part of the Dunseverick and Keshballykeel ward from the proposed new Derry City District. This was countered by suggestions that the Dunluce ward should be included in the proposed Derry City District.

Public Hearing

A Public Hearing was not required in Coleraine but the Council presented evidence at the hearing in Moyle district about its proposed district boundary changes.

Revised Recommendations

I was not convinced by the arguments presented at the public hearing for change at district level. No revisions were necessary at ward boundary level. It was not, therefore, necessary to publish revised maps for Coleraine and the Provisional Recommendations are carried through to the Final Stage. The average ward electorate is 1,671 based on a 22 ward structure.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Coleraine local government district remain unchanged and that the number of wards in the District increases by one to 22 as shown on the associated maps. The composition of the 22 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES COMMISSIONER REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

BALLYMONEY LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate increased by 11% from 15,751 to 17,457. The number of electors per ward ranged from 893 to 1,405 with an average of 1,091 based on a 16 ward structure.

Initial Representations

A majority of the Council favoured a merger of Ballymoney and Moyle Districts and the inclusion of the Dunluce ward from Coleraine. The majority of further submissions received were in favour of change, generally through merging with Moyle. A proposal in the Moyle Council to merge the District with Ballymoney District was defeated, but a substantial minority within the Council favoured merger.

Provisional Recommendations

Moyle and Ballymoney are the smallest of the districts, with the lowest populations, the lowest ratios of rateable valuation per head and the lowest number of electors per ward. Both fall far below the Macrory minimum of 30,000 population. The area as a whole has a special historic identity, with each district having an ethos of its own which has been recognised in two previous boundary revisions.

A large weight of opinion advocated change for a variety of reasons and with a number of solutions. However, I believed that the existing boundary with Coleraine District is geographically the most satisfactory and that the request to change this did not command wide support. In addition I considered that Moyle District in its entirety did not easily merge with Ballymoney, particularly the Glendun, Glенаan and Glenariff wards which have better communication and other links with Ballymena than with Ballymoney. At the Provisional Stage I suggested merging Ballymoney with Moyle to form a new District named Dalriada with 20 wards; the Glendun, Glенаan and Glenariff wards from Moyle, together with part of the Ballyhoe and Corkey ward from Ballymoney, would become two new wards within Ballymena District to be called Glendun and Glenariff. The average ward electorate was 1,232.

Ballymoney's desire for merger obviously helped contribute to my decision. Nevertheless, I was anxious to hear representations from the people of the area about my suggestion at the Provisional Stage.

Response

By far the largest number of representations received concerned the proposal to transfer part of Moyle to Ballymena and to merge the remainder with Ballymoney. Of these, the vast majority were from Moyle and opposed my recommendations including both Moyle and Ballymena Councils. The volume of interest in the media, TV programmes and other comments also made clear the extent of interest in, and opposition to the proposals.

Public Hearing

I was grateful to obtain agreement for holding a joint Public Hearing in Moyle, particularly from Ballymoney Council. The main issues to arise related to both Districts and a joint hearing avoided duplication.

The hearing in Ballycastle was the largest, best attended and most vigorously contested of all. I was also grateful to all concerned for the number and quality of the written and oral submissions, and for the courtesy and good temper with which very strongly held views were advocated. Ballymoney representations included reference to population, area, rateable valuation, economy, efficiency and tourism. The representations from Moyle stressed the strong sense of community, the general satisfaction with the present arrangements, and pride in the good relationships that existed both within the area and externally.

Revised Recommendations

The strong local feeling in favour of the retention of Moyle and the notable lack of confidence that the area's special character would be safeguarded within the new and enlarged Dalriada convinced me that I should revise my

Provisional Recommendations and retain the existing external boundaries of Ballymoney, Moyle and Ballymena local government districts. The internal ward boundary structures for Ballymoney were revised in line with the existing ward numbers and the average ward electorate of 1,091 was retained.

Response

Nine submissions were received at this stage which represented a substantial reduction in the written submissions received at both of the earlier stages. Five submissions objected to the Revised Recommendations although I noted that no individual elector apart from councillors or former councillors objected to the revised proposals.

However, additional issues were raised, particularly in relation to Ballymoney Council's attitude to "Sunday opening", Heritage, Culture, Representation, Economics and Viability which indicated to me the need for a further public hearing which was held on Monday 13 April 1992.

Public Hearing

The Public Hearing was well attended and Ballymoney Council, which was the principal objector, together with the Ballymoney and Moyle Ulster Unionist Association plus others put forward well argued points supporting merger albeit these were largely based on economic issues which I considered not strictly within my remit. Moyle Council representatives responded to all the key issues raised including Sunday opening, Heritage, Representation and Viability.

Final Recommendations

Despite the strength of the evidence submitted supporting merger at the Revised Stage the concern I expressed at that Stage was reinforced particularly in relation to the Glens which I had always acknowledged did not easily link with Ballymoney. As the option of any linkage with Ballymena was dropped, the centre of gravity for Moyle shifted back towards Ballycastle. Moyle representatives reiterated their objections to a merger and satisfied me that the overwhelming desire within their district was to stand alone. The comparative rate burden is not a matter for me, neither am I primarily concerned about the managerial efficiency of councils. What I must take account of is viability and Moyle Council has proved to be at least viable, and to have given satisfaction to a majority of its ratepayers. I cannot speculate on the effect of possible changes in administrative or tendering arrangements. In this context, however, it is worth noting that should neighbouring councils evince a desire to merge at any time, there is specific provision in the legislation to facilitate this process.

After careful consideration of all of the evidence submitted I could find no compelling reason to change my Revised Recommendations which are carried through to the Final Stage. I recommend that the boundary and name of Ballymoney local government district remain unchanged and that the District continues to comprise 16 wards as shown on the associated map. The composition of the 16 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES COMMISSIONER REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

MOYLE LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate increased by 709, from 9730 to 10439. While this represented an overall increase of 7% certain wards increased by up to 45% while others have shown a 10% reduction. Although the average ward electorate is about 700 based on 15 wards, several wards have about 600 electors.

Initial Representations

A majority of the 12 submissions received were in favour of change, generally through merging with Ballymoney and Ballymena local government districts. Some representations suggested further change through a linkage with Coleraine and Larne local government districts.

I also received a number of letters from individuals in this District arguing that it is not viable on its present rate base and a general representation about tourism suggesting that tourist development is inhibited by small sized councils, especially in the context of European Community funds.

A proposal in the Moyle Council to merge the District with Ballymoney District was defeated but a substantial minority of Councillors favoured merger. A majority within Ballymoney Council favoured a merger with Moyle District and Coleraine local government district suggested that mergers would generally be accepted.

The options are neatly summed up by a submission from the Cushendall District Development Group, offering three choices: retain existing boundaries; Moyle and Ballymoney district to merge; Glens, Glendun and Glenariff wards transfer to Ballymena district with the remainder of Moyle merging with Ballymoney district; although the Group's first option was the retention of the existing district boundary.

Provisional Recommendations

Moyle is a particularly difficult case. It is by far the smallest of the districts, with the lowest population, the lowest ratio of rateable valuation per head, the lowest number of electors per ward and it falls far below the Macrory minimum of 30,000 population. Yet it has a special historic identity, an ethos of its own which has been recognised in two previous boundary revisions and, as a local government district, it appears to have worked reasonably well.

When examined more closely, however, the District in its present form does not appear to be necessarily integrated round a special identity. The focus of the historic Glens of Antrim appears to relate more to the area along the east coast and they are already divided between Moyle and Ballymoney districts. On the north coast, the area around Ballycastle relates to the Glens but further west the focus appears to be Ballymoney or Coleraine. This division is reflected in the Council's own discussions on boundary change.

Ballymoney is also a small District and has the next smallest electorate after Moyle. Yet Moyle district does not easily merge with Ballymoney district. It seems to me that the Glendun, Glens and Glenariff wards have better communication and link more easily with Ballymena than with Ballymoney.

A large weight of opinion advocated change for a variety of reasons and with a number of solutions. At the Provisional Stage I made the following suggestions: Moyle should merge with Ballymoney to form a new local government district, known as Dalriada with 20 wards and the Glendun, Glens and Glenariff wards from Moyle plus part of the Ballyhoe and Corkey ward from Ballymoney District would become two new wards within Ballymena local government district to be called Glendun and Glenariff. I was anxious to hear further representations from the people of the area about my suggestion at the Provisional Stage. The proposed new local government district had a total electorate of 24,642 with an average 1,232 ward electorate based on a 20 ward structure.

Response

By far the largest number of representations received concerned the proposal to transfer part of Moyle to Ballymena and to merge the remainder with Ballymoney. Of these, the vast majority were from Moyle and opposed my recommendations including both Moyle and Ballymena Councils. The volume of interest in the media, TV programmes and other comments also made clear the extent of interest in, and opposition to the proposals.

Public Hearing

I was grateful to obtain agreement for holding a joint Public Hearing in Moyle, particularly from Ballymoney Council. The main issues to arise related to both Districts and a joint hearing avoided duplication.

The hearing in Ballycastle was the largest, best attended and most vigorously contested of all. I was also grateful to all concerned for the number and quality of the written and oral submissions, and for the courtesy and good temper with which very strongly held views were advocated. The representations from Moyle stressed the strong sense of community, the general satisfaction with the present arrangements, and pride in the good relationships that existed both within the area and externally. Ballymoney representations included reference to population, area, rateable valuation, economy, efficiency and tourism.

Revised Recommendations

The strong local feeling in favour of the retention of Moyle and the notable lack of confidence that the area's special character would be safeguarded within the new and enlarged Dalriada convinced me that I should revise my Provisional Recommendations and retain the existing external boundaries of Moyle, Ballymoney and Ballymena local government districts. The internal ward boundary structures for Moyle were revised in line with the existing ward numbers and the average ward electorate of 696 was retained.

Response

Nine submissions were received at this stage which represented a substantial reduction in the written submissions received at both of the earlier stages. While the local Council and other submissions received from within the District accepted the Revised Recommendation, five further submissions largely from within Ballymoney District objected to the proposals. Additional issues were raised, particularly in relation to Ballymoney Council's attitude to "Sunday opening"; Heritage; Culture; Representation; Economics and Viability.

Public Hearing

Although a Public Hearing was not necessary in relation to Moyle local government district in view of the objections to my Revised Recommendations from Ballymoney local government district plus the additional issues raised I decided to hold a further public hearing in Ballymoney.

The public hearing was well attended and Ballymoney Council, which was the principal objector, together with the Ballymoney and Moyle Ulster Unionist Association plus others put forward well argued points supporting merger albeit these were largely based on economic issues which I considered not strictly within my remit. Moyle Council representatives responded to all the key issues raised including Sunday opening, Heritage, Representation and Viability.

Final Recommendations

Despite the strength of the evidence submitted supporting merger at the Revised Stage the concern I expressed at that Stage was reinforced particularly in relation to the Glens which I had always acknowledged did not easily link with Ballymoney. As the option of any linkage with Ballymena was dropped, the centre of gravity for Moyle shifted back towards Ballycastle. Moyle representatives reiterated their objections to a merger and satisfied me that the overwhelming desire within their district was to stand alone. The comparative rate burden is not a matter for me, neither am I primarily concerned about the managerial efficiency of councils. What I must take account of is viability and Moyle Council has proved to be at least viable, and to have given satisfaction to a majority of its ratepayers. I cannot speculate on the effect of possible changes in administrative or tendering arrangements. In this context, however, it is worth noting that should neighbouring councils evince a desire to merge at any time, there is specific provision in the legislation to facilitate this process.

After careful consideration of all of the evidence submitted I could find no compelling reason to change my Revised Recommendations which are carried through to the Final Stage. I recommend that the boundary and name of Moyle local government district remain unchanged and that the District continues to comprise 15 wards as shown on the associated map. The composition of the 15 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES COMMISSIONER REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

LARNE LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Larne increased from 20,206 to 22,107 representing a 9% overall increase. The average ward electorate was 1,474 based on a 15 ward structure. All but two of the wards experienced some increase in electorate; this was sometimes marginal although larger variations ranged from a 9% increase in Gardenmore to a 45% increase in Glynn.

Initial Representations

The Council's submission envisaged no district boundary change and sought one additional ward. There was also a number of further proposals, some of which were radical.

Provisional Recommendations

Within the District the electorate remained stable in most wards with any increases spread fairly evenly throughout both urban and rural wards. Only three wards were outside the 10% range: Glenarm (-15%); Central (-16%); and Glynn which represented the most significant variation (+26%).

There was no desire for change in the district boundary with the exception of the more radical proposals which I discounted. An overall increase in the electorate of 9% might seem to justify a new ward; but the fairly even spread of the electorate plus the occurrence of the largest electoral variation in adjacent wards (Glynn and Central) made it possible to transfer electorate and maintain equality within the District without the need to create a new ward.

Response

The local Council's initial response was to continue to press for one additional new ward. However, the Council subsequently accepted the Provisional Recommendations and a public hearing was not necessary.

Revised Recommendations

No revisions to the Provisional Recommendations were necessary and no revised maps were published. The Provisional Recommendations are carried through to the Final Stage. The average ward electorate remains at 1,474.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Larne local government district remain unchanged and that the District continues to comprise 15 wards as shown on the associated map. The composition of the 15 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

BALLYMENA LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Ballymena increased by 3,961 from 37,879 to 41,840. Although this represented an overall increase of 11%, individual ward variations ranged from a 50% increase in Galgorm to a 15% decrease in Castle Demesne. The average ward electorate was 1,819 based on 23 wards.

Initial Representations

The Council submission plus one further representation considered that two new wards were necessary based on growth in the electorate. Some representations envisaged Ballymena local government district extending to include parts of Moyle and Larne local government districts. Comments received about certain District Electoral Area boundaries were not part of my present remit but I undertook to ensure that they would be brought to the attention of the next District Electoral Areas Commissioner.

Provisional Recommendations

Electoral growth within Ballymena town exceeded 1,700 and this was mostly concentrated on the western side of the town where I created a new ward, in the Galgorm area, called Academy. All of the rural wards experienced some electoral growth but only in Broughshane and Ahoghill was this significant, approaching 30%.

In the context of a merger between Ballymoney and Moyle local government districts it was suggested that the Glendun, Glanaan and Glenariff wards have closer links and better communication with Ballymena than Ballymoney. Another proposal suggested a linkage between the Carnlough and Glenarm wards in Larne local government district.

There were numerous suggestions about the future structure of local government in North Antrim. The suggested boundary change with Larne District did not command widespread support and was discounted. However, certain representations about merging Ballymoney and Moyle Districts had suggested that the Glendun, Glanaan and Glenariff wards link well with Ballymena but have little direct communication with Ballymoney. At the provisional stage I suggested that the Glendun, Glanaan and Glenariff wards from Moyle together with part of the Ballyhoe and Corkey ward from Ballymoney become two new wards within the District which I named Glendun and Glenariff.

These changes resulted in a ward average of 1,734 based on 26 wards.

Response

Ballymena Borough Council opposed any change to its District boundary and the proposed transfer of the Glendun, Glanaan and Glenariff wards from Moyle and part of the Ballyhoe and Corkey ward from Ballymoney was objected to by the majority of the many submissions received in respect of Moyle and Ballymoney Districts.

There was minimal comment about the internal ward boundaries proposed.

Public Hearing

A Public Hearing was not required in Ballymena but at the hearing in Ballycastle the proposed transfer of parts of Moyle and Ballymoney local government districts to Ballymena was universally opposed.

Revised Recommendations

It was clear that there was no support for the transfer of parts of Moyle and Ballymoney Districts to Ballymena. I decided, therefore, to retain Ballymena's District boundary intact and, with no further change to internal ward boundaries this resulted in a 24 ward structure within the District with an average ward electorate of 1,743.

Response

Comments received at this stage generally welcomed the Revised Recommendations which are carried through to the Final Stage.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Ballymena local government district remain unchanged and that the number of wards in the District increases by one to 24 as shown on the associated maps. The composition of the 24 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES COMMISSIONER REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

MAGHERAFELT LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate increased by 2,643 from 22,645 to 25,288. While this represented an overall increase of 12% there were wide variations with two wards in Magherafelt town increasing by 23% and 26%. The average ward electorate was 1,686 based on a 15 ward structure.

Initial Representations

Few representations were received regarding this District and only one envisaged a boundary change to include part of Cookstown local government district.

Provisional Recommendations

There was no desire for change except for the isolated suggestion to adjust the boundary with Cookstown District which did not command any support. The bulk of the electoral growth occurred in Magherafelt town where the overall electoral increase plus its concentration justified an additional ward. Ward boundary changes were necessary to equalise the ward electorate and the creation of the new ward called Glebe allowed a more definite distinction between the urban and rural wards.

This created a ward average of 1,581 based on a 16 ward structure.

Response

Two substantive representations were received at this second stage of the Review. While largely accepting the Provisional Recommendations, detailed ward boundary changes were suggested. Both submissions were however linked to District Electoral Area boundary assumptions unrelated to this Review.

Public Hearing

I decided to hold a Public Hearing to provide an opportunity for further oral representation on the proposed ward boundary changes. Representations were made about the split of the urban/rural electorate; the size of the ward electorate; community identity; cultural and historical links; Parliamentary Boundaries; District Electoral Areas and Council Representation.

It was explained at the hearing that the latter issues were not part of the Commissioner's remit under this Review. It was also explained that as far as reasonably practicable there should be substantially the same electorate in each ward (within  $\pm 10\%$  tolerance) and that there should also be proper representation of the rural and urban electorate.

Revised Recommendations

After careful consideration of the written and oral evidence submitted I decided not to revise my Provisional Recommendations due to the need to achieve a proper urban rural split plus ward electorate equality. No further comments were received at this stage of the Review and the Provisional Recommendations are carried through to the Final Stage.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Magherafelt local government district remain unchanged and that the number of wards in the District increases by one to 16 as shown on the associated map. The composition of the 16 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES COMMISSIONER
REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

COOKSTOWN LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Cookstown increased by 1,906 to 21,479. This represented an overall increase of 10% spread fairly evenly between urban and rural wards with the largest increase experienced in Tullagh and Gortallowry. The ward average was 1,342 based on a 16 ward structure.

Initial Representations

The Council wished to keep its local government district as an integral unit but there were suggestions from within Omagh District that parts of Cookstown might transfer to it. One recommendation went further to suggest that Cookstown as a district should be abolished and merged with neighbouring districts. Generally, however, other submissions envisaged little change in Cookstown except at ward boundary level.

Provisional Recommendations

The representations about district boundary changes did not command wide support and I was satisfied that no change was necessary. The increase in the District electorate was spread fairly evenly over the entire Council area between both urban and rural wards. Due to the dispersed nature of the growth the need for any additional wards was difficult to justify and, by limited redistribution of the electorate, I was able to achieve broad ward equality leaving the average ward electorate at 1,342.

Response

No substantive comments were received about the Provisional Recommendations.

Revised Recommendations

No revisions to the Provisional Recommendations were necessary. No revised maps were published and the Provisional Recommendations are carried through to the Final Stage.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Cookstown local government district remain unchanged and that the District continues to comprise 16 wards as shown on the associated map. The composition of the 16 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

STRABANE LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Strabane increased by 11% from 22,813 to 25,234, the bulk of which was concentrated in urban wards with Strabane West experiencing a 60% increase. A ward average of 1,682 was based on 15 wards.

Initial Representations

The Council strongly believed that the district boundary should remain unchanged and there was broad agreement for this in most other submissions. However, there was some representation for change at district level plus a request for additional wards. No detailed comments were received relating to the existing wards.

Provisional Recommendations

The major representations pointed to no change at district level. The electorate in rural areas had declined but the Strabane town electorate had increased and I was satisfied that an additional ward should be created in the town. The growth in the South and West wards was sufficient to create a new ward centred on the Ballycolman housing estate. Other options were considered but were rejected mainly because the Mourne river creates a natural boundary splitting Strabane town into two separate areas. The remaining urban electoral increases in Castlederg and Sion Mills were used to balance the adjoining rural decrease in Finn.

This created a ward average of 1,577 based on a 16 ward structure.

Response

Two representations were received at this second stage of the Review, one of which welcomed the additional ward. Both submissions referred to ward boundary changes although the Council representations were based on assumptions about District Electoral Area boundaries which are not relevant to this Review.

Public Hearings

At the Public Hearing the Chairman explained the background to the Review and emphasised that due to the distribution of the electoral growth within the District it was necessary to change ward boundaries in order to achieve equity in ward electorate. He also emphasised that comments about District Electoral Areas would not be appropriate during the hearing as these boundaries were not part of the Review remit.

The oral representation was very constructive and highlighted the sense of local community between certain settlements and in particular emphasised the difficulties created for the Spamount and Glebe communities through the proposed boundary changes.

Revised Recommendations

I was very sympathetic to the arguments presented and was able to accommodate some of the proposals within the Review criteria particularly at Spamount and Crew in respect of the provisionally recommended Victoria Bridge ward.

However it was not possible to meet all the representations, for example, Glebe and still retain ward electorate equality which I regarded as an overriding criterion.

Response

The Council again objected to detailed ward boundary Revisions primarily in relation to Ardstraw village which were a consequence of accommodating the representations made at the hearing about Castlederg, Spamount and Crew which I had accepted. Further comments referred to provisionally recommended ward boundaries which had not previously been raised at the Provisional Stage. In view of the objections to the Revised Recommendations I decided that a further public hearing should be held to give the Council the opportunity to present additional evidence orally.

Public Hearing

In view of the comments from the Council the Chairman again explained the background to the Review particularly the requirement to alter certain ward boundaries at both the Provisional and Revised Stages to take account of changes in the electorate.

The main issues raised at the hearing related to the connection between Ardstraw and Newtownstewart; the Spamount and Crew connections with Castlederg; the Strabane urban ward boundary at Castlemurray; individual Provisional ward boundary changes; plus the overall ward structure.

Although the evidence presented about Ardstraw highlighted the obvious strong historic Parish connection with Newtownstewart no existing sense of local community relationship was put forward. Representations were made that the Castlemurray area relates to Strabane urban wards and is currently zoned for housing development within the urban development limit for Strabane town. It was therefore proposed that the area should transfer from the Finn ward to the West ward in Strabane town.

The representations about the individual ward boundary changes which had occurred at the Provisional Stage were linked solely to the location of Polling Stations and it was explained that this was not an appropriate matter for this Review. Finally, the comments presented on the overall ward structure by certain councillors were noted as requiring radical change and would be unlikely to create a proper representation of the rural and urban electorate within the district as required under the Review criteria.

Final Recommendations

A further site visit confirmed the connection between Spamount and Castlederg as presented at the Provisional Stage by the Council. However, the connection between Ardstraw and Newtownstewart is not so obvious. While the existing ward boundary splits the village the revised recommended ward boundary retains the village and its hinterland intact and also provides an excellent linkage with Victoria Bridge, the focus of its new ward.

I accept that the Parish connections between Ardstraw and Newtownstewart as expressed at the hearing are very strong, nevertheless, I am satisfied that Parish boundaries are not a determinant of local government boundaries. After careful consideration of the evidence presented I have decided to retain the Revised Recommendations except in respect of the Castlemurray/Castletown area which results in a further change between the Finn ward boundary and the West ward in Strabane town.

I recommend that the boundary and name of Strabane local government district remain unchanged and that the number of wards in the District increases by one to 16 as shown on the associated maps. The composition of the 16 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

OMAGH LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Omagh increased by almost 7% from 28,663 to 30,611 with a ward average of 1,458 based on 21 wards. Large variations occurred at ward level with Killyclogher experiencing a 53% increase in electorate and a marked decline (-37%) in the Drumragh electorate which was partly accounted for by a change in the electoral register whereby patients from the Tyrone and Fermanagh hospital were no longer registered.

Initial Representations

The Council's submission expressed the view that a population of about 60,000 was required to enable a council to provide an efficient and effective service under Compulsory Competitive Tendering. Accordingly, it proposed that, if the Review recommendations were to include a rationalisation of local government, Omagh should acquire parts of Strabane (ie, Castlederg, Newtown Stewart and Plumbridge) and Cookstown (ie, Broughderg and Pomeroy) which have natural links with Omagh town. The majority of the remaining representations concentrated on likely changes at ward level within the District, including possible additional wards.

Provisional Recommendations

There was no clear desire for change at district level apart from a radical rationalisation of local government districts. This did not command wide support and was, therefore, discounted.

Due to the growth in the electorate in both urban and rural wards it was necessary to examine each ward boundary particularly in Omagh town, where the Strule and Drumragh rivers were major constraints preventing the easy transfer of the electorate between wards.

It was necessary to alter the ward boundaries in seven out of the eight urban wards in Omagh by dealing with the town in two distinct segments, one lying on each side of the Rivers Strule and Drumragh. This resulted in balancing wide variations, particularly in Drumragh and Killyclogher, within an acceptable range while retaining the existing number of wards. In the rural areas the variations were less extreme and only minimal ward boundary changes were necessary. The average ward electorate remained at 1,458.

Response

There were just two representations at this stage of the Review raising only minor issues in relation to Omagh town ward boundaries.

Revised Recommendations

I was unable to accept any of the minor issues raised. As I did not propose any changes to the Provisional Recommendations, it was not necessary to publish maps at the Revised Stage. The Provisional Recommendations are, therefore, carried through to the Final Stage.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Omagh local government district remain unchanged and that the District continues to comprise 21 wards as shown on the associated maps. The composition of the 21 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

FERMANAGH LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Fermanagh increased by 1,185 from 37,416 to 38,601 representing a 3% increase, the smallest local government district growth. The average ward electorate was 1,678 based on a 23 ward structure. However, there was a wide variation in ward electorate ranging from under 1,400 in Ederney and Lack to over 2,500 in Rossorry which experienced a 52% increase since 1982.

Initial Representations

Few representations were received relating to Fermanagh local government district and none suggested any significant change. There was some representation about change at ward level in Enniskillen due to urban growth and revised ward patterns were suggested.

Provisional Recommendations

The main trend in this District was rural decline and increase in the three main urban centres of Enniskillen, Lisnaskea and Lisbellaw. Rural wards such as Ederney and Lack experienced a 9% electoral decrease and Belcoo and Garrison plus Rosslea also fell by 7% and 6% respectively. Within Enniskillen two wards experienced considerable growth; Rossorry in the west experienced the largest electoral increase (52%) within the District while to the east Castlecoole experienced a 36% increase.

Although the small increase did not justify an additional ward the wide variation in the growth of the electorate required a substantial re-drawing of the ward boundaries to achieve an average ward electorate within an acceptable range. In Enniskillen the Erne was a major constraint preventing the easy transfer of the electorate between wards. The large increase in Rossorry was resolved by adjusting the ward boundary as far as possible to align with the development limit. Part of the excess electorate was transferred to Island which increased significantly and was renamed Portora.

To provide for an electorate within an acceptable range, Kesh was transferred from the Kesh and Lisnarrick ward to link with Ederney and Lack as it had prior to 1982 and the eastern rural ward electorate was balanced by transferring blocks of townlands. While my proposed ward structure did not coincide exactly with the ward patterns suggested in representations I felt that it represented the best solution, recognising the distinction between the urban and rural electorate and providing ward electorate equality within an acceptable range.

Response

Only two representations were received at the second stage of the Review both of which proposed detailed boundary changes mainly in relation to Enniskillen plus Rosslea, Newtownbutler and Brookeborough wards.

Public Hearing

I decided to hold a Public Hearing to allow the opportunity for further comment on the Provisional Recommendations. The evidence presented at the hearing mainly concentrated on the written evidence which was developed most helpfully based on extensive local knowledge.

Revised Recommendations

Following the hearing, I was glad to be able to accommodate most of the points raised except where this was not possible bearing in mind the need to retain ward electorates within an acceptable range. I revised ward boundaries in relation to the Rossorry and Rosslea wards and within Enniskillen, principally to overcome objections about the Derrychara housing estate. The average ward electorate remained at 1,678.

Response

No further comments were received at this stage and the Revised Recommendations are carried through to the Final Stage.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Fermanagh local government district remain unchanged and that the District continues to comprise 23 wards as shown on the associated maps. The composition of the 23 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES COMMISSIONER

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

DUNGANNON LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Dungannon increased from 30,326 to 32,054, an overall increase of 6%. Certain wards increased by up to 22% while others decreased by up to 11%. The average ward electorate was 1,457 based on a 22 ward structure.

Initial Representations

The main submissions received, including the Council's representations, considered that no change was required. There was, however, one suggestion to extend the district boundary to include part of Cookstown, and others raised the possibility of sections of Dungannon transferring to Omagh.

Provisional Recommendations

I was satisfied that the representations about district boundary changes did not command wide support. The 6% overall increase in the district electorate and the fairly even distribution of the electoral growth between urban and rural wards suggested the retention of a 22 ward structure. It was possible to redistribute the electorate to achieve equality in ward electorates and the average ward electorate remained at 1,457.

Response

The only comment received at this stage was from the Council which agreed with the Provisional Recommendations.

Revised Recommendations

No revisions to the Provisional Recommendations in relation to Dungannon District were necessary and, accordingly, no revised maps were published at this stage. The Provisional Recommendations are carried through to the Final Stage.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Dungannon local government district remain unchanged and that the District continues to comprise 22 wards as shown on the associated maps. The composition of the 22 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

CRAIGAVON LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Craigavon increased by 10% from 49,019 to 53,891 with an average 2,073 ward electorate based on a 26 ward structure. There was considerable population movement within the district with wards in Lurgan and Craigavon experiencing significant decreases, for example, Tullygally (21%) and Drumgask (15%); while the wards of Kinnegoe, Magheralin, Waringstown and Bleary all experienced significant increases of up to 50%.

Initial Representations

Few representations were received regarding this District and all envisaged minimal change except at ward level. Only two boundary changes were raised, one from Banbridge local government district about the townland of Tullycarn in the Waringstown ward and a suggestion that the Moira ward should transfer from Lisburn local government district.

Provisional Recommendations

The significant urban decreases in Lurgan and Brownlow could no longer sustain the existing ward pattern. This resulted in the existing Mourneview ward merging with adjacent wards and the existing Church ward being renamed Mourneview.

The more stable urban wards in Craigavon, together with the significant adjoining rural increases, allowed me to create a new rural ward based on Waringstown. The existing Waringstown ward was renamed Donaghcloney based on its central focus.

The only other significant change involved the boundary between the wards of Kinnegoe and Aghagallon. With the townland of Kinnegoe transferring to Aghagallon ward, the existing Kinnegoe ward was renamed Derrytrasna.

The request by Banbridge district to acquire the townland of Tullycarn (18 electorate) was based on administrative reasons which I accepted as logical.

The ward average of 2,072 was retained.

Response

Only one representation was received at this second stage of the Review objecting to the transfer of the Tullycarn townland to Banbridge and to the revised ward boundaries in the Lurgan area.

Public Hearing

I decided to hold a Public Hearing to allow an opportunity for further comment on the Provisional Recommendations. Banbridge Council's further evidence supporting the transfer of Tullycarn was most convincing. The remaining evidence presented concentrated on the proposed Taghnevan, Mourneview and Drumgask wards which was most helpful and confirmed my own concern about the provisionally recommended Drumgask ward.

Revised Recommendations

I confirmed my decision to transfer the Tullycarn townland and revised certain ward boundaries which largely took account of the various issues raised.

Response

My Revised Recommendations were generally welcomed although one representation opposed them. However, this objection was largely based on District Electoral Area boundaries which are not part of the current Review.

Final Recommendations

I was satisfied that my Provisional Recommendations should be revised, particularly in relation to Drumgask ward and the Revised Recommendations are carried through to the Final Stage.

I recommend that the boundary and name of Craigavon local government district remain unchanged except in respect of Tullycarn townland which transfers to Banbridge local government district as shown on the associated maps. The District remains on 26 wards, the composition of which is detailed in the attached Appendix.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES COMMISSIONER

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

ARMAGH LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Armagh increased by 2,394 from 33,603 to 35,997 representing a 7% overall increase. The ward average was 1,636 based on a 22 ward structure. The wards of Callan Bridge, Abbey Park and The Mall all decreased while the bulk of the remaining wards increased and this was most noticeable in Rich Hill where the electorate increased by 44%.

Initial Representations

The Council's submission dealt solely with the question of its district boundary which it wished to remain unchanged. The majority of the remaining submissions also preferred the district boundary to remain unchanged with some adjustments to the number and boundaries of the wards. One representation for change would have resulted in Armagh increasing to 27 wards through the addition of five South Armagh wards from Newry and Mourne District.

Provisional Recommendations

Although the vast bulk of the representations sought no change I carefully considered the South Armagh proposal particularly in the context of further proposals put forward about Newry and Mourne District. However, the transfer of the South Armagh wards from Newry and Mourne District had no geographical basis and, in any event, did not command wide support. I therefore decided not to recommend any change to the District's boundary.

The 7% overall increase in the electorate and the spread of the electorate throughout the District called for a complete examination of the ward structure particularly in view of two representations received, one of which sought an additional two wards while the other suggested a reduction by two.

However, I found no justification for changing the number of wards; growth in the electorate overall was low and its spread throughout the mainly rural wards in the north and east greatly exceeded urban growth in Keady, Tandragee and Armagh City.

This resulted in the average ward electorate remaining at 1,636.

Response

There was minimal further representation at this stage and after lengthy and detailed consideration the local Council generally accepted the Provisional Recommendations.

Revised Recommendations

No revisions to the Provisional Recommendations were therefore necessary. No revised maps were published and the Provisional Recommendations are carried through to the Final Stage.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Armagh local government district remain unchanged and that the District continues to comprise 22 wards as shown on the associated maps. The composition of the 22 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

NEWRY AND MOURNE LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate increased by 7,019 to 57,698 representing an overall increase of 14%. Only four wards showed a decrease in electorate while the remaining wards increased from 2% in Crossmaglen and St Mary's to almost 50% in Ballycrossan. The average number of electors per ward increased to 1,923 with 11 wards exceeding 2,000 electorate. The district has the maximum number of 30 wards.

Initial Representations

The Council's submission and one other supported retention of the existing district boundary. The remaining submissions advocated boundary changes with the neighbouring local government districts of Armagh, Down and Banbridge particularly in relation to South Armagh, the ancient Kingdom of Mourne and Rathfriland.

Provisional Recommendations

The electoral patterns, particularly the increases, show important variations in individual ward totals ranging from a 5% reduction in Bessbrook to an almost 50% increase in Ballycrossan. The major growth is concentrated in the mainly rural wards to the east of Newry town. By contrast, in the west growth has been variable with many of the South Armagh wards well below average. These differences are reinforced by topography, in particular the Newry River Estuary and its associated canal which effectively splits the District and severely restricts the opportunity to change ward boundaries and to achieve equal representation particularly between the eastern and western wards. My consideration of the District, based on this spread of electorate and the submissions received, can be summarised under four broad headings:-

Retention of existing boundary

The District already has a maximum of 30 wards. To accommodate the substantial electoral increase of 14% within the existing structure would, therefore, have required substantial redrawing of ward boundaries in order to achieve broad equality of the electorate throughout the District. The large increase in electorate since 1982 in Newry town and the eastern wards would have justified a new ward in South Down. This would, however, need to have been balanced by dropping a ward in South Armagh. Under such a rearrangement the ward electorates would have fallen within the accepted range, although with substantial variations.

South Armagh Wards

One submission advocated the transfer of the South Armagh wards to Armagh local government district, a proposal which would have radical repercussions, including the consequential transfer of wards from Down local government district to restore the historic identity of the Kingdom of Mourne. Traditionally the South Armagh area looks towards Newry as an urban centre rather than northwards to Armagh; I also noted that Armagh district did not seek to gain territory and Newry and Mourne wished to retain the existing boundary.

Kingdom of Mourne

A large number of representations suggested boundary changes between Newry and Mourne and Down districts, essentially to express the sense of community and regional identity within the historic Kingdom of Mourne. There was no general agreement on the line of this new boundary although normally diverse political groupings agreed on a suggestion to transfer historic Mourne to Down local government district. Another representation suggested a transfer of wards from Down to combine all the Mournes area within Newry and Mourne district. I noted that neither Council had asked for an adjustment of the boundary.

Rathfriland

The transfer of Rathfriland with its natural hinterland to Banbridge local government district was raised consistently in most submissions which advocated change, with a surprising level of agreement between normally diverse political groupings. I received strong representations from Banbridge District Council seeking the transfer of Rathfriland to Banbridge.

I was satisfied that the transfer of South Armagh wards to Armagh District could be discounted; it has no geographic basis and did not command wide support.

There is a strong case for recognising the regional identity of Mourne although on its own it would not form a viable local government district. Several wards forming part of historic Mourne lie within Down District. Their transfer to Newry and Mourne district would have significant structural effects in Down and would make it difficult to keep Newry and Mourne to the required total of 30 wards. The transfer of the Mourne wards to Down would create a large 30 ward District where growth in the electorate is likely to continue. I believe that Mourne has a strong regional identity. Its links are no stronger with Downpatrick or Ballynahinch in Down District than with Newry or Newtownhamilton in its present District. I did not believe, therefore, that there was a strong case for changing the present boundaries and recommended that the existing structure should be retained.

In the case of Rathfriland I found many indications that the local community tends to look towards Banbridge as a more natural focus than Newry, reflecting the topography and lines of communication. I recommended that the area should transfer to Banbridge District reducing the overall District electorate by 1,724 to 55,974. Although this decision provided the necessary head-room to create a new ward to absorb the increased electorate and maintain a 30 ward structure without the loss of a South Armagh ward, this was NOT a deciding factor although it might be regarded by some as a bonus.

The wards with the largest number of electors in Newry and Mourne were in South Down stretching from Ballycrossan through the adjoining wards of Lisnacree, Rostrevor and Binnian. This corridor of growth allowed me to create a new ward from part of Ballycrossan centred on Derryleckagh. The remainder of Ballycrossan was extended towards Kilbroney and the revised ward was renamed Burren and Kilbroney. This resulted in a ward average of 1,866 based on a 30 ward structure.

Response

Thirteen submissions were received at this second stage of the Review, most of which were repetitive. The major issue raised was the transfer of the Rathfriland ward to Banbridge local government district. The further issues raised concerned individual ward boundary changes and were largely related to District Electoral Areas which are not part of this Review.

Public Hearing

In view of the objections to my proposals a Public Hearing was necessary to give the opportunity for further comment on the Provisional Recommendations. Once again the major issue was the transfer of Rathfriland to Banbridge district. The only other change at district boundary level which was raised related to the transfer of the ancient Kingdom of Mourne to Down local government district. Additionally a number of comments were made about certain individual ward boundaries although none of these submissions had regard to the need to maintain ward electorate equality.

Revised Recommendations

After careful consideration of the written comments received and following oral representation at the hearing I was satisfied that the Provisional Recommendations in respect of Rathfriland should remain unchanged. Ward boundaries were revised to take account of issues raised at the hearing in relation to Newry urban wards where there was overall Council agreement to revise the Windsor Hill ward boundary at Shandon Park. The consequential revisions needed to maintain ward electorates within the guidelines, together with the merged Burren and Kilbroney communities, may not be regarded as wholly satisfactory, but, after careful consideration, I was satisfied that no acceptable alternative structure existed. I was also able to meet objections to the boundary of the Warrenpoint urban wards. I was unable to accept the further ward boundary changes proposed and maintain ward electorate equality within an acceptable range which I regarded as an overriding criterion. Finally, I was not convinced by the argument presented for further district boundary changes with Down District.

Response

The local Council again objected to the proposed transfer of the Rathfriland ward and they were supported by the local MP. A petition was also submitted objecting to the proposed transfer although this largely related to the splitting of Drumgath Roman Catholic Parish.

Although very little new evidence was submitted in writing on the Rathfriland issue, in view of the continuing objections to my proposal I decided to hold a further public hearing to allow the opportunity for the submission of additional evidence orally.

No further comments were received about individual ward boundaries except in relation to the proposed Burren and Kilbroney ward which I had already acknowledged as not wholly satisfactory but after careful consideration I was satisfied that no acceptable alternative structure was possible; nor were any alternatives put forward.

Public Hearing

This second hearing was well attended with comments again largely concentrating on the single issue regarding the transfer of the Rathfriland ward to Banbridge district.

The points raised in support of the evidence submitted mainly concerned population movement, geography, health, education, commerce, development, parish boundaries and historical links. A further petition was also submitted indicating substantial support for the proposed transfer. In this connection it was clarified that the original petition submitted was intended to indicate the opposition to splitting the Drumgath parish between two local government districts.

Further evidence was submitted about the Clonallan, Burren and Kilbroney, Lisnacree, Binnian and Kilkeel wards which I undertook to re-examine.

Final Recommendations

The evidence presented to me both at the hearings and in writing was most useful albeit I considered certain issues raised, particularly in relation to health, education and economic aspects, to be not strictly within my remit. There also appeared to be a generally held misunderstanding that the proposal to transfer the Rathfriland ward was linked to the overall increase in the electorate within the Newry and Mourne District since the last Review and the legal requirement to retain a maximum 30 ward structure. Although the Secretary of State decided to bring forward the Review largely because of the significant population movements in Northern Ireland since 1982 this was NOT a factor in my decision, as clearly indicated at the Provisional Stage. Nor was my decision linked in any sense to ensuring that Banbridge remained a viable local government district; the retention of Banbridge local government district as a single local government unit was not in doubt at any stage of this Review.

While I accept that the Parish connections as expressed at the hearing are very strong, nevertheless, I am satisfied that Parish boundaries are not a determinant of local government boundaries nor will this issue create any local government administrative difficulties.

As I explained at both hearings I was interested to have confirmed to me what direction the people of Rathfriland look; where they shop, work, seek leisure facilities; what is now regarded as the primary urban centre for Rathfriland which is quite obviously a town on the edge of the areas of influence of two larger centres - Newry and Banbridge.

Based on the written and oral evidence presented on these key issues I am satisfied that the bulk of Rathfriland residents now look toward Banbridge, regardless of the historical association with Newry and Mourne district. In confirming my Provisional and Revised Recommendations I am conscious that there is no simple or right answer; the drawing of boundaries is not an exact science and it has been left to me to weigh up the competing considerations which have been so ably presented both in writing and orally. It is important to emphasise however that my decision has been reached with the unanimous support of my Assistant Commissioners.

The further oral representations made primarily in relation to Warrenpoint and Kilkeel ward boundaries indicated very strongly held views which were obviously based upon extensive local knowledge. I therefore re-examined the issues raised and following an extensive review I am glad to be able to accommodate most of the points raised. I am also recommending a further change in relation to Meigh which now transfers to the Forkhill ward.

I recommend that the boundary of Newry and Mourne local government district be adjusted in relation to the Rathfriland ward which transfers to Banbridge local government district as shown on the associated maps but that its name remains unchanged. The District remains on 30 wards, the composition of which is detailed in the attached Appendix.

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

BANBRIDGE LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate has increased by 2,966 from 21,746 to 24,712 representing an overall 14% increase. The average ward electorate is 1,647 based on a 15 ward structure. All but two of the wards experienced some increase ranging from just 2% in Lawrencetown to over 40% in Ballydown.

Initial Representations

The Council representation was the most detailed local government submission received during the consultation period and was most helpful. Briefly, it recommended two additional wards within the existing District and the transfer of the following; the Rathfriland area from Newry and Mourne local government district; certain townlands from Lisburn local government district including Dromara; and the Tullycarn townland from Craigavon local government district. There were further substantial representations supporting the transfer of Rathfriland from Newry and Mourne District and other comments linked Dromara with Banbridge. Further changes at a district level were also suggested with Lisburn and Down local government districts. Only one representation was received suggesting no change to the existing boundary.

Provisional Recommendations

Although certain district boundary changes proposed did not command wide support I was satisfied that the representations about Rathfriland, Dromara and Tullycarn were based on a genuine desire to improve local government representation.

The transfer of the Rathfriland ward was raised consistently in most submissions advocating change, with a surprising level of agreement between normally diverse political groupings. I found too, many indications that the local Rathfriland community tends to look towards Banbridge as a more natural focus than Newry for shopping, social activities, recreation and education. I believe that the area should transfer, increasing the overall district electorate by 1,724.

The argument for transferring the 18 electors in the Tullycarn townland was based mainly on administrative reasons which I accepted.

On Dromara my investigations confirmed that while some residents may certainly look to Banbridge others look to Lisburn, Down and Belfast for work, shopping, recreation and education. I was not convinced that the arguments about Dromara transferring to Banbridge were sufficiently strong to justify change nor did they command widespread support. There was no apparent consistent trend and I therefore retained the existing boundary.

The concentration of the growth in the electorate in the urban wards and the fairly even spread throughout the rural wards pointed to an additional urban ward and adjustments to rural ward boundaries. I therefore retained the pattern of eight rural wards with certain boundary adjustments while the concentration of growth in the urban wards of Banbridge West, Ballydown and Seapattrick allowed me to create a new urban ward named The Cut.

This resulted in an additional two wards, including Rathfriland, with a ward average of 1,556 based on a 17 ward structure.

Response

Although the proposals were generally welcomed, further revisions were suggested at Rathfriland, Dromore and Dromara. The revised ward name of Ballyward was suggested for the provisionally recommended Legananny ward.

Public Hearings

Although a Public Hearing was not necessary in relation to Banbridge district the Rathfriland, Dromore and Dromara issues were raised at the Newry and Mourne and Lisburn public hearings respectively. These included the transfer of two townlands at Dromore to Banbridge district plus the inclusion of the entire village of Dromara in Lisburn District, which was contrary to the earlier suggestion that the village should all transfer to Banbridge.

Revised Recommendations

I decided against further change except for a minor district boundary adjustment to include the entire village of Dromara in Lisburn District plus some minor internal revisions at ward level, all of which were generally accepted.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary of Banbridge local government district be adjusted to include the Rathfriland ward from Newry and Mourne District plus the Tullicarn townland from Craigavon district and exclude the village of Dromara as shown on the associated map. The name of the District remains unchanged and the number of wards increases by two to 17. The composition of the 17 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES COMMISSIONER

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

DOWN LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Down increased by 4,914 from 34,991 to 39,905 representing a 14% overall increase. All wards, with the exception of Flying Horse, increased since the last Review with Saintfield experiencing the highest increase at 30%. The average ward electorate was 1,735 based on a 23 ward structure.

Initial Representations

The Council was unanimous that its structure should be retained. Other representations envisaged major changes to the district boundary involving the neighbouring local government districts of Ards, Castlereagh and Newry and Mourne albeit without any consistent approach.

Provisional Recommendations

The lack of consistent representations on likely boundary changes - none of which commanded wide support - led me to conclude that the existing structure should be retained. Within the District, Saintfield, Crossgar and Ballynahinch represented the three main areas of growth while, in sharp contrast, several wards in the Downpatrick area were well below average, particularly Flying Horse.

I decided to retain the existing 23 ward pattern; a growth of 14% in the total electorate might have justified the creation of a new ward but, apart from the Flying Horse ward, growth was evenly spread throughout the District. Because ward boundary changes in Downpatrick appeared to make the existing ward names increasingly inappropriate I renamed the three urban wards Scotch, Irish and English Quarter.

Response

The Provisional Recommendations were generally accepted except for the proposed boundaries of the Seaforde and Killough wards and the proposed new names for the Downpatrick wards.

Public Hearing

A Public Hearing was held at which the issues raised in correspondence were elaborated on. I was pleased to note that those present at the hearing were agreed on the issues raised and that acceptable alternatives to what I had provisionally proposed for the Seaforde and Killough wards were agreed. The suggested Scotch, Irish and English Quarter ward names were also discussed and, while the Cathedral and Audleys Acre names appeared to be the most acceptable, an alternative ward name of Ballymote for the Flying Horse ward received general support.

Revised Recommendations

The hearing proved to be very useful and, as a result, it was possible to agree to acceptable alternatives for the Seaforde and Killough wards. Also as a result of the hearing I decided to revert to the ward names of Cathedral and Audleys Acre and to rename the Flying Horse ward Ballymote. The 23 ward structure retains an average ward electorate of 1,735.

Response

No further comments were received at this stage about the Revised Recommendations which are carried through to the Final Stage.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Down local government district remain unchanged and that the District continues to comprise 23 wards as shown on the associated maps. The composition of the 23 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

LISBURN LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Lisburn increased by 11,602 to 68,399 representing a 20% gain which was one of the largest local government district increases. This growth was spread fairly evenly between the rural and urban wards although there were wide variations, for example, Drumbo (5%), Maze (40%), Ballymacoss (70%) and Collin Glen (264%). Eight wards decreased in electoral terms. The average ward electorate was 2,443 based on 28 wards.

Initial Representations

I received the second largest level of response in respect of changes to this local government district. The Council suggested that its district boundary should remain unchanged and requested two additional wards bringing the total number of wards to 30, the statutory maximum. The majority of the remaining responses referred to changes with the Belfast boundary in relation to the Collin Glen, Kilwee, Twinbrook, Seymour Hill, Dunmurry wards although other district boundary changes, for example, with Antrim (Glenavy), Craigavon (Moira), Banbridge (Dromara) and Castlereagh (Drumbo) were also suggested.

Provisional Recommendations

I considered all the suggested district boundary changes but discounted them because they either lacked consistency or were too radical. The exception was the Collin Glen-Twinbrook-Dunmurry area which figured consistently in submissions, mainly in the context of a transfer to Belfast. I visited the area and followed the existing boundary, examining the linkage with both Belfast and Lisburn Districts in order to understand fully all the arguments. Initially, I received very strong representations from the local communities that they wished to remain within Lisburn District at this stage.

Although I proposed no change to the district boundary at the Provisional stage, I indicated that I would welcome further comments, preferably in writing but also orally at the local public hearings particularly on the suggested adjustments with Belfast.

I was satisfied that the scale of the growth in the electorate with its concentration in the rural west and urban east was sufficient to justify two additional wards. A new ward structure was considered based on the three major strands of electoral change namely the rural growth in the Moira area, urban expansion at Poleglass and Ballymacoss and adjustments needed to balance the variations in the Lisburn town wards to achieve average ward electorate within a reasonable tolerance.

The Moira ward was sub-divided to form a new rural ward named Maghaberry and this necessitated changing the boundaries of Magheragall and Glenavy. Magheragall was renamed Ballinderry in line with its new focus. A new urban ward, centred on the Poleglass housing areas, was established and alterations to the boundaries of adjoining wards were also necessary in order to equalise the ward electorate. Although individual ward boundaries in Lisburn town were adjusted, the overall ward pattern remained largely intact. The wards with below average electorates gained from growth elsewhere in the town. This resulted in a ward average of 2,282 based on a 30 ward structure.

Response

Nine representations were received at this stage of the Review including a petition with over 2,000 signatures claiming that a majority of residents in Poleglass, Twinbrook, Upper Dunmurry Lane and Glengoland wished to transfer to Belfast local government district. Three main issues were raised; a general request to include part of Lisburn District within Belfast; the more specific transfer of the Poleglass/Twinbrook area into Belfast; and the rationalisation of the Lisburn/Banbridge boundary close to Dromore and at Dromara village.

Public Hearing

I decided to hold a Public Hearing primarily to allow the three issues mentioned above to be developed upon orally. However, no further evidence was submitted about changing the district boundary with Belfast except from the local Council representatives who largely felt that the boundary should remain intact.

The Dromara village issue was raised at the hearing and both Banbridge and Lisburn Councils essentially agreed that it would be preferable to include all of the village in Lisburn District although the Banbridge representatives linked this transfer with the Dromore proposals which they also considered as preferable. However, it was not possible to find any level of agreement on the need for changes to the district boundary in the Dromore area although I undertook to examine the proposed townlands following the hearing.

Revised Recommendations

It became increasingly obvious that suggestions for extending Belfast into Lisburn were not in fact strongly held views which commanded wide support. On the contrary, all of the evidence presented at the hearing by local councillors from various parties was in favour of either Lisburn's boundary with Belfast remaining intact or of adding the Suffolk area to Lisburn. I was not convinced that I should change my earlier decision on this issue and no change to the district boundary was proposed in my Revised Recommendations.

The issue about the district boundary splitting Dromara village was largely resolved and agreed at the hearing and I was able to redraw the boundary to include all of the Dromara village in Lisburn District.

Following the hearing, I visited the townlands at Dromore which it had been suggested should transfer to Banbridge. Following the tour and as a result of comments at the hearing, I again arrived at the conclusion that no strong case existed for the transfer of Listullycurran and Backnamullagh townlands to Banbridge. Following the receipt of additional evidence about local attitudes from Lisburn Council I was convinced that there was no widespread support for such a move.

Response

There were no objections to my Revised Recommendations although the Suffolk issue was again raised. I had already decided that there was no good reason to change Lisburn's district boundary in that area which follows a natural geographical feature. I did not recommend any further changes and the Revised Recommendations are carried through to the Final Stage.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Lisburn local government district remain unchanged except for a minor change in the Dromara area where part of the Crossgar townland transfers to Lisburn local government district. I also recommend that the number of wards in the District increases by two to 30 as shown on the associated maps. The composition of the 30 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

ANTRIM LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Antrim increased by 11% from 27,048 to 29,937 with a ward average of 1,576 based on a 19 ward structure. The electoral growth was not evenly spread with wide variations experienced, for example, Templepatrick and Crumlin wards increased by 40% while others like Rathenraw decreased by up to 40%.

Initial Representations

The Council suggested several district boundary changes with Newtownabbey local government district, at Mallusk and Doagh, together with the transfer of certain areas from Lisburn local government district: Glenavy village; Sandy Bay, to enable Antrim to extend its water based recreation facilities; and part or all of Dundrod village, which could easily be serviced by Antrim district and is closely linked to Glenavy. The Council also submitted detailed proposals for changes to the wards in the Antrim town area, the effect of which would be to lose the Rathenraw ward and create a new ward called Greystone.

The bulk of the remaining representations concentrated on internal ward boundary changes although one further submission referred to the transfer of Glenavy to Antrim district.

Provisional Recommendations

Examination of the spread of the electorate revealed two major trends. The first was a general decrease in Antrim town particularly in Rathenraw where several hundred houses had been demolished by the Housing Executive. The adjacent wards of Ballycraigy, Fountain Hill and Balloo also decreased. In contrast significant increases occurred in certain rural wards, for example, Crumlin and Templepatrick.

Because of the large overall urban electorate decrease I decided to reduce the number of wards in Antrim town by one through a merger between the adjacent wards of Rathenraw and New Park which I called Rathenraw and New Park. The increases in the rural wards of Crumlin and Templepatrick resulted in the creation of a new ward which I called Parkgate. The consequential changes to the existing Tardee ward required a further ward name change which I suggested should be Shilvodan.

Having received representations about Glenavy, Sandy Bay and Dundrod I carefully considered this aspect and although the area seemed to relate well with Lisburn town, I sought further comments on the suggested transfer to Antrim District.

Response

Only 2 representations were received at the second stage of the Review and each proposed detailed ward boundary changes plus changing the proposed Rathenraw and New Park ward name to Farranshane. No additional comments were received about the district boundary changes initially raised.

Public Hearing

I decided to hold a Public Hearing to allow the opportunity for further comment on the detailed ward boundary changes proposed largely in relation to the Shilvodan, Parkgate, Springfarm, Massereene, Drumanaway and Randalstown wards. The evidence was presented in a most helpful and constructive way and there was mostly general agreement on the key issues raised.

Revised Recommendations

The written evidence received together with the oral representations submitted at the hearing were most helpful. Following the public hearing I was glad to be able to take account of local representations in most cases including the retention of the Townparks North housing estate within the existing ward. I also accepted the revised ward name of Farranshane.

This resulted in the average ward electorate remaining at 1,576.

Response

Any comments received at this stage generally welcomed the Revised Recommendations which are carried through to the Final Stage.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Antrim local government district remain unchanged and that the District continues to comprise 19 wards as detailed in the associated maps. The composition of the 19 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES COMMISSIONER

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

NEWTOWNABBEY LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Newtownabbey increased by 2,966 from 51,658 to 54,624. While this represented an overall increase of 6%, certain wards increased by up to 50% while others reduced by over 20%. The electorate in eight out of the 25 wards decreased and the average ward electorate was 2,185 based on a 25 ward structure.

Initial Representations

The Council wished to retain its existing district boundary but suggested the need for additional wards to reflect the electoral growth since 1982. The remaining representations either agreed with the Council or suggested boundary changes with Belfast, Carrickfergus, Larne and Antrim local government districts.

Provisional Recommendations

There was no overall consistency and little support for changes to the district boundary and I concluded that there was no clear case for any such changes.

About 90% of the growth in electorate occurred in the northern part of the District in Ballyclare and surrounding rural wards and this allowed me to redraw ward boundaries and create a new rural ward called Ballyrobert.

Increases in the Glengormley area helped in part to balance the decline in the Rathcoole wards. However, the very limited pockets of urban growth were insufficient to overcome the substantial decrease in electorate centred on the Rathcoole wards and this resulted in the loss of an urban ward. The two existing urban wards of Dunanney and Braden were merged forming a single urban ward named Dunanney.

Response

A number of representations were received at this stage which mainly opposed certain ward boundaries and the loss of an urban ward in the south of the district. Belfast City Council sought to extend its district boundary primarily to include those parts of Newtownabbey local government district where former citizens of the City resided.

Public Hearing

I decided to hold a Public Hearing to allow the opportunity for further comment on the Provisional Recommendations. The Belfast City Council representative argued that the existing district boundary is artificial and that the city boundary should be extended to include parts of Newtownabbey. This was strongly opposed by the local Council which felt that its identity was strong and that the District was now established as a cohesive unit. Evidence was also presented on detailed ward boundary changes.

Revised Recommendations

I found the public hearing most helpful. I was satisfied that the existing district boundary followed the best physical feature and, in any event, there was little desire for change. It was clear that the evidence produced about ward boundary changes was based upon extensive local knowledge which had widespread support within the Council. Much of what was proposed at the hearing on ward boundary changes appeared sensible and I was glad to be able to take account of most of the proposals in finalising my Revised Recommendations.

The revised 25 ward structure retains a 2,185 average ward electorate.

Response

Any comments received at this stage generally welcomed the Revised Recommendations which are carried through to the Final Stage.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Newtownabbey local government district remain unchanged and that the District continues to comprise 25 wards as shown on the associated maps. The composition of the 25 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES COMMISSIONER REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

CARRICKFERGUS LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Carrickfergus increased markedly by 3,977 to 23,969 representing an overall increase of 20% which was one of the largest local government district increases. The average ward electorate was 1,598 based on a 15 ward structure. Although the electorate in a total of six wards declined, a number of wards experienced substantial increases particularly Eden, Boneybefore and Victoria and the Woodburn electorate increased by over 170%.

Initial Representations

The Council's first preference was to streamline local government with the number of local government districts reducing to 17. This suggestion envisaged a merger between Carrickfergus, Larne and Newtownabbey creating a new East Antrim Council. Its second option envisaged the retention of the existing district boundary with two additional wards. The bulk of the remaining submissions envisaged no substantial change but one further suggestion supported the idea of a new East Antrim Coast Council to include the bulk of Carrickfergus and Larne local government districts.

Provisional Recommendations

The consideration of this District was perhaps one of the most straightforward once I had discounted any radical boundary changes. The overall rise of 20% in electorate warranted two additional wards and it was obvious that these could be established in the separate areas of Eden, Boneybefore and Victoria in the east and Woodburn in the west.

I created a new ward called Thornfield in the west of the District by splitting the original Woodburn ward and a combination of areas from the original Boneybefore and Eden wards created a further new ward in the east called Bluefield.

Response

There was only one response to the Provisional Recommendations for Carrickfergus which was from the local Council welcoming the proposals but suggesting that the new ward name of Thornfield should be revised to Burleigh Hill.

Revised Recommendations

I accepted the Borough Council's suggestion that the new Thornfield ward should be renamed Burleigh Hill and the Provisional Recommendations were amended accordingly without the need to hold a Public Hearing. I did not publish revised maps for the District and the Provisional Recommendations are carried through to the Final Stage with the exception of the revised ward name. The average ward electorate is 1,410 based on a 17 ward structure.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Carrickfergus local government district remain unchanged and that the number of wards in the District increases by two to 17 as shown on the associated map. The composition of the 17 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

NORTH DOWN LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, there has been a marked increase of 7,028 in the local government electorate from 46,752 to 53,780, or 15%. The existing ward average of 2241 is based on a 24 ward structure. Two of the wards have decreased slightly in electorate with the remainder showing a wide variation in the level of increase peaking at 154% in Ballymagee.

Initial Representations

The Council was largely content with its present boundary but felt that an extension into the Harbour Estate at Tillysburn would be advantageous. The Council also recommended that a new ward called Ballycrochan should be created because of the electoral increase in the Ballymagee ward.

Other minor boundary changes were suggested at Loughview and Ballymagee to align local government and Parliamentary boundaries; and it was emphasised that Helen's Bay should not be split by a ward boundary. Some further representations were received about boundary changes between North Down, Ards, Castlereagh and Belfast local government districts.

Provisional Recommendations

I closely examined the suggested boundary change with Belfast at the Harbour Estate which appeared to be linked to economic and road traffic issues. The minor variations between local government and Parliamentary boundaries which were highlighted stem from the previous review of local government boundaries which was subsequent to the review of Parliamentary constituencies at that time. There has been no opportunity to realign these boundary differences since then but a review of Parliamentary boundaries is due during the period 1992 - 1997 and I will ensure that these representations are brought to the attention of the Boundary Commission.

I was not convinced by the arguments for change to the district boundary. In any case these were minimal, excluding the more radical proposals which would result in the demise of both Ards and Castlereagh local government districts. While I appreciated the Council's economic arguments for proposing an extension of its boundary into the Harbour Estate because of the future likely development I was unconvinced about the need for such a change on the basis of fair local government representation.

I had some sympathy with the concern expressed about the boundary created at the last Review between the Crawfordsburn and Craigavad wards at Helen's Bay but to maintain equality of the electorate between wards within a reasonable range I was unable to redraw this boundary. Part of the representations on this issue related to the District Electoral Areas boundary which were not part of my present remit but I undertook to ensure that they would be brought to the attention of the next District Electoral Area Commissioner.

As the overall increase in the district electorate was relatively concentrated and because of the high level of development in the former Ballymagee ward, it was possible to create a new ward called Ballycrochan along the lines suggested by the Council.

This created an average ward electorate of 2,151 based on 25 wards.

Response

There was only one submission at this stage which referred to the ward boundary at Helen's Bay.

Revised Recommendations

No revisions to the Provisional Recommendations were necessary and no revised maps were published. The Provisional Recommendations are carried through to the Final Stage.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of North Down local government district remain unchanged and that the number of wards in the District increases by one to 25 as shown on the associated maps. The composition of the 25 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES COMMISSIONER

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

ARDS LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate increased by 18% from 41,046 to 48,467 with a ward average of 2,423 based on a 20 ward structure. Only four wards showed a minimal decrease in electorate while the remaining increases varied from a 5% increase in Donaghadee North to almost 60% in Loughries and Movilla. The most significant electoral growth took place in three wards; Movilla and Loughries to the west of Newtownards town and Ballygowan in the south where there has been significant housing development in the village and rural areas.

Initial Representations

The Council requested that there should be no change to the district boundary and suggested that additional wards would be needed to cater for the electoral growth. The remaining representation was minimal and either agreed with this stance, suggested a boundary extension into Castlereagh or the demise of the District through mergers with the adjacent local government districts of Belfast, North Down, Castlereagh and Down. A local Donaghadee Community Association suggested ward boundary changes between the Donaghadee and Millisle wards to retain their local community intact.

Provisional Recommendations

In view of the very wide divergence of opinion on boundary changes at a district level, none of which appeared to command wide support, I decided to retain the existing district boundary.

The overall electoral increase in the district of nearly 20% suggested the possibility of at least two additional wards. However, the distribution of growth in the electorate meant that I was able provisionally to recommend the establishment of only one additional ward which took account of the significant expansion on the fringe of Newtownards town and in the adjoining rural area. I suggested that the new ward in this locality should be called Loughries with the existing ward of Loughries renamed Gregstown. Decreases in electorate occurred in the Comber North and adjoining wards of West Winds and Scrabo. To achieve a more equal representation in these declining wards the growth in electorate in Ballygowan was redistributed to create a new ward pattern, with the former West Winds ward renamed Ringcreevy.

I was sympathetic to the issues raised by the local Donaghadee community and my revised ward pattern resolved the issues raised.

Response

The Council objected to the provisionally recommended ward name Ringcreevy and indicated its intention to press for an additional ward. Individual councillors also indicated the need for additional wards.

Public Hearing

In view of the Council's objection to the Provisional Recommendations a Public Hearing was arranged to allow the opportunity for further oral representation. All the representations concentrated on the likely ward structure. The Council plus other individuals suggested retaining the existing 20 ward structure while other representations indicated that either the suggested 21 or a revised 23 ward structure would be preferable.

Revised Recommendations

Following consideration of the written and oral representations my choice lay between either retaining the Provisional Recommendations; returning to the existing 20 ward structure; or increasing the number of wards to 23. In view of the large overall electoral increase in the district (20%) I decided that 23 wards created the best structure and established the fairest average ward electorate (2,107), particularly when compared to the neighbouring districts of North Down and Castlereagh. The new wards have been named Lisbane, Gregstown and Carrowdore respectively.

Response

The Revised Recommendations were generally accepted although the Council suggested some adjustments to ward boundaries which I decided not to adopt due to their unacceptable nature, particularly at Donaghadee. The Revised Recommendations are carried through to the Final Stage.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Ards local government district remain unchanged and that the number of wards in the District increases by three to 23 as outlined on the associated maps. The composition of the 23 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

CASTLEREAGH LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate in Castlereagh increased by 6% from 44,688 to 47,350 with a ward average of 2,255 based on a 21 ward structure. The growth was not evenly spread with wide variations experienced, for example, Carryduff and Knockbracken wards increased by up to 60% while Graham's Bridge and Cregagh decreased by 13%.

Initial Representations

The Council was satisfied with its existing district boundary which it considered should not be altered but suggested two additional wards. The remaining representations either agreed with the Council or suggested boundary changes with Belfast, Ards, North Down and Lisburn local government districts, some of which were of a radical nature and would have resulted in the demise of Castlereagh. The only petition received during the initial consultation period was from residents of the Upper Castlereagh Road area wishing to transfer to Castlereagh Borough from Belfast local government district.

Provisional Recommendations

There was no agreement on district boundary changes nor was there widespread support for any particular change. I did, however, look closely at the district boundary with Belfast and made a tour of the area in order to explore fully the possibility of agreeing a more definitive line.

I decided against district boundary changes due to the lack of any consistent representations. I also felt that adjusting the boundary with Belfast would not necessarily improve the current position and that any radical change would lead to the demise of Castlereagh as a viable unit; this I considered would not be appropriate under this Review.

Within the District, ten wards experienced decline ranging from -2% in Gilnahirk to -12% in Cregagh while three wards experienced substantial growth: Carryduff (60%), Knockbracken (52%) and Ballyhanwood (28%). Due to the concentration of growth in the electorate around Carryduff and Knockbracken it was possible to create a new ward, Carryduff East, with the existing Carryduff ward renamed Carryduff West. This also resulted in the redrawing of the Four Winds and Hillfoot wards which I renamed Cairnshill and Galwally. I considered that there was insufficient growth to accommodate two additional wards as suggested by the Council and the new 22 ward structure sought to accommodate the anticipated growth referred to in some representations. The new ward average was 2,152 based upon a 22 ward structure.

Response

There were three representations received commenting on the Provisional Recommendations. One issue raised centred on the district boundary with Belfast; while the City Council sought to have its area extended to include part of Castlereagh, the Borough Council supported local residents in the Orangefield ward who wished to transfer to Castlereagh. The other issues raised related to internal ward boundaries plus a request from the Council for a further additional ward.

Public Hearing

At the Public Hearing no additional evidence was submitted suggesting changes with the Belfast City Council boundary. I did, however, receive submissions about the creation of an extra ward and about certain ward boundary changes.

Revised Recommendations

The evidence presented to me both at the hearing and in writing was most useful and, especially as there was unanimous Council objections to certain ward boundaries, I made substantial revisions including the creation of an additional ward and the alignment of ward boundaries along the dual carriageway. The average ward electorate is reduced to 2,059 based upon the revised 23 ward structure.

Response

Any comments received at this stage generally welcomed the Revised Recommendations which are carried through to the Final Stage.

Final Recommendations

I recommend that the boundary and name of Castlereagh local government district remain unchanged and that the number of wards within the District increases by two to 23 as shown on the associated maps. The composition of the 23 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES COMMISSIONER REVIEW OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOUNDARIES

FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

BELFAST LOCAL GOVERNMENT DISTRICT

Background

Since the last Review, the local government electorate decreased by 15,925 from 226,637 to 210,712, representing an overall reduction of 7%. Certain individual wards have decreased by as much as 30% while others have increased by 15%. The average ward electorate is currently 4,132 based on 51 wards.

Initial Representations

A total of nine submissions were received and these can be summarised as follows:- no change to district boundary; increase and adjust ward boundaries only; extend the district boundary to include parts of the adjoining districts in which former Belfast electorate now reside, eg, Rathcoole, Poleglass, Ballybeen; transfer Poleglass, Twinbrook, Dunmurry from Lisburn local government district to Belfast; create new North/West and South/East Belfast local government districts; adjust boundary to include the primarily urban parts of Castlereagh local government district; transfer part of the Orangefield ward to Castlereagh District; and adjust boundary with North Down local government district at the Harbour Estate.

Provisional Recommendations

Determining boundaries for Belfast depends to a great extent on the emphasis given to various aspects the City exercises as a regional centre. At this broad level, Belfast provides functions for the whole of Northern Ireland. At another level, there is also the common economic identity found in the Belfast travel to work area. At yet another more local level, the Greater Belfast Area comprises the Belfast local government district plus the continuous built up areas of Castlereagh, Lisburn and Newtownabbey as well as Greenisland and Holywood. This Area has numerous links with the city centre and many of the people residing in the catchment associate themselves with Belfast. If my task was to define the boundaries of a single tier authority implementing most of the functions traditionally associated with municipal or local government then this is the level of definition and the associated boundary that would be appropriate.

In Belfast this is not so and the Review is not concerned with this issue. Main municipal functions such as planning, roads, water and sewerage are exercised at regional level. Health, housing and education services are provided by separate agencies. District councils are elected at a sub-metropolitan level to exercise, for example, relatively local environmental functions and to provide leisure services and to be an important vehicle for the consultation of local opinion in regard to planning and other policies. Macrory recommended that these functions should be exercised in the Greater Belfast Area by a number of local government districts including Castlereagh, Lisburn and Newtownabbey as well as Belfast. This arrangement, having been confirmed in legislation in the 1972 Order and consolidated during the last Review, determines the level at which the present Review is pitched.

The question, therefore, of a single metropolitan district does not arise, but rather whether the present electoral arrangements are still appropriate in the light of population movement to the suburbs or redevelopment in the inner city, the extent of local demands for change and whether such change will improve the delivery of local services.

The requests to extend the Belfast district boundary to include the urban areas on its periphery was most pronounced in connection with Lisburn district. I looked at this carefully together with the existing boundary with Castlereagh district and examined the boundaries on the ground. I decided to recommend no change at this stage; my decision being influenced by the general lack of representations for change together with the difficulty in identifying appropriate alternative physical boundary lines. A further important consideration at this stage was the comments received from a cross-section of Poleglass community leaders advocating no change and from the only petition received suggesting the transfer of some 400 people from Belfast to Castlereagh.

I am also content that the existing boundary with Newtownabbey district follows the best physical features between the two districts and that no good reason exists to change the existing boundary with North Down.

While there was insufficient evidence to justify changing the district boundary at this stage nevertheless it was obvious that each ward boundary would need to be examined in order to equalise the ward electorate within the City. I felt that if possible the number of wards should be retained at 51 although it was clear that the northern part of the City could no longer sustain an 18 ward structure. This therefore reduced to 17 primarily due to the decline in the electorate in certain wards with the electorate in the existing St Anne's ward redistributed between adjacent wards.

Although I considered the possibility of creating a new ward in South Belfast to maintain the existing overall number of wards, the distribution of the electorate and the physical boundaries between South and East and South and West Belfast prevented the transfer of electorate (except through the citycentre). There was, therefore, no readily apparent satisfactory means of establishing a new ward in the southern part of the City. The number of wards therefore reduced to 50 giving an average 4,214 ward electorate.

In view of the large number of representations for change at district level, which for the reasons outlined above I felt unable to accept at the Provisional Stage, it was important that I received further representations preferably in writing but also orally at local public hearings.

Response

Twelve representations were received at this second stage of the Review which largely reinforced the evidence presented at the initial stage about adjusting the boundary of the district; the overall number of wards; an additional ward in South Belfast plus detailed comments about individual ward boundaries. In view of these detailed comments a Public Hearing was arranged to allow the opportunity for further oral representation.

Public Hearing

No further representations were made about the District boundary except for a submission by Castlereagh Council supporting a petition by residents in the Upper Castlereagh Road/Orby area to transfer to that district.

In addition the following main issues were raised at the hearing;

- (i) The unsuitability of the proposed boundary of Island ward which divided Island Street in East Belfast;
- (ii) The likelihood that the provisionally recommended boundary of Glencairn and Legoniel wards would deter people from voting across 'peace lines';
- (iii) The undesirability of creating a ward extending from the Donegall Road to Finaghy in South Belfast; and
- (iv) The unsuitability of some ward boundaries in the Botanic/ Stranmillis area.

Revised Recommendations

Following consideration of the further representations received I decided, for the reasons outlined at the Provisional Stage, to recommend no change to the district boundary. In relation to ward boundaries I was able to recommend revisions which resolved the major issues raised except for the problems highlighted in the Botanic/Stranmillis area. In addition following an extensive review of the South Belfast wards in an attempt to resolve the major objections I was able to recommend the establishment of a new ward bringing the total number of wards in Belfast back to 51, which I had indicated as desirable at the Provisional Stage. This restores the average ward electorate to 4,132.

Response

Three representations were received in response to the Revised Recommendations objecting to the revised 51 ward structure; detailed ward boundaries; plus the district boundary with Castlereagh local government district. The City Council expressed concern that the Council had not been represented at the Public Hearing held on Monday 25 November 1991 and indicated that a delegation would attend any further hearing to present oral evidence on the proposed ward structure.

Although little new written evidence was produced nevertheless I decided to hold a further public hearing primarily to consider the Council's objections to the Revised Recommendations, in particular the creation of an additional ward in South Belfast and the loss of a North Belfast ward.

Public Hearing

The Council representative presented evidence about the Balmoral electoral area and suggested the rearrangement of certain streets within wards. No alternative ward structure was proposed and no further evidence was presented regarding North Belfast.

Further evidence was presented about the proposal to split the Landseer Street/Ridgeway Street general area between Stranmillis and Botanic wards. It was suggested that this could be resolved by allowing a breach of the ward electorate equality criteria.

Finally, a representative of the residents from the Upper Castlereagh Road/ Orby Drive area reiterated the earlier submissions about the proposed transfer of the area to Castlereagh and emphasised that they had no sense of community relationship with Belfast.

Final Recommendations

In view of the minimal representation about the revised 51 ward structure I am satisfied that there should be no further change. After careful consideration I am unable within my guidelines to resolve the objections in relation to the Stranmillis/Botanic ward boundary and I feel that the case for creating a substantial inequality in the ward electorate is insufficient.

Although impressed by the evidence presented about transferring part of the Orangefield ward to Castlereagh district I decided to retain the district boundary intact.

I recommend that the boundary and name of Belfast local government district remain unchanged and that the District continues to comprise 51 wards as shown on the associated maps. The composition of the 51 wards is detailed in the attached Appendix.
